Shabbat Shalom to the Royal Family of Yehovah,

Burundi 2018

I want to thank each and every one of you who has donated to sightedmoon.com these past 13 years. To those who have given $5 and to those who have given up to $10,000. Those who thought of us when each of the Holy Days came and those who think of us each month with a regular donation. Some of the donations go to cover the ongoing cost of maintaining this website and the email list. The past 6 months have seen us supporting the work that is ongoing in the Philippines with advertising and sponsoring the events that Aike has been doing in Mindanao and having great success. We have also helped Telesphore in Burundi Africa this past year a few times but as much as we would like to have been able to help him and the people he is teaching.

As Sukkot was coming to a close this year, James headed back over to Burundi for two weeks to teach as many of those he could in the very short time he had to be there.

Please read what James is telling us and we once again ask you to help us to achieve our goals in this area of the world.

I would like you all to read once again Isaiah 11:11

In that day the Lord will extend his hand yet a second time to recover the remnant that remains of his people, from Assyria, from Egypt, from Pathros, from Cush, from Elam, from Shinar, from Hamath, and from the coastlands of the sea. He will raise a signal for the nations and will assemble the banished of Israel, and gather the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth.

These are the nations that Yehovah is going to bring back the remnant of Israel from. The second Exodus as some are calling it.

I did not choose which nations I would speak in. Doors opened and I step through them. The Philippines is the Isles of the Sea that Isaiah is talking about. And Pathros is said to be the ends of the Nile.

The Nile River begins just south of the Equator, flows northward through Egypt, Sudan, Uganda, Ethiopia, Zaire, the Sahara Desert, Kenya, Tanzania, Eritrea, Burundi, and Rwanda and ends at the Mediterranean Sea after flowing through the Nile River Delta. The Nile River is the longest river in the world, approximately 4,258 miles in length.

The exact source of the Nile River is disputed. The Nile's two major tributaries are the White Nile and the Blue Nile. While the Blue Nile, which originates at Lake Tana in Ethiopia, contains most of the sediment and water that will flow into the Nile, the White Nile is considered to be the Nile River's prime stream and headwaters. The Nile is also fed by the Atbara river, which originates in the highlands of Ethiopia.

Experts believe that the true source of the Nile River is either the Ruvyironza River in Burundi, or the Nyabarongo River in Rwanda. Both rivers are feeder rivers for the Kagera River, which is itself the longest feeder river for Lake Victoria, the largest lake in Africa, and the beginning point of the Nile River. Because the Nile's source remains unknown, the exact length of the Nile, from its source to its end at the Mediterranean sea, is also unable to be determined.

Here is some more about Pathros.

PATHROS

Pathros is regularly associated with Egypt (Heb., Mits·raʿyim). (Eze 30:13, 14) Most scholars connect the name Pathros with an Egyptian expression meaning “Land of the South” and evidently referring to Upper Egypt. Upper Egypt generally designates the region of the Nile Valley running from a point somewhat S of Memphis on up (south) to Syene (modern Aswan) at the first cataract of the Nile. The text at Isaiah 11:11, which foretells the return of Israelite exiles from ‘Egypt (Mizraim), Pathros and Cush,’ would seem to corroborate the placing of Pathros somewhere in Upper Egypt, with Cush (Ethiopia) bordering it on the S. An Assyrian inscription of King Esar-haddon gives a similar lineup, referring to “Egypt (Musur), Paturisi and Nubia [Kusu, or Cush].” —Ancient Near Eastern Texts, edited by J. Pritchard, 1974, p. 290.

Ezekiel 29:14 calls Pathros “the land of their [the Egyptians]’ origin.” The traditional Egyptian view, as recounted by Herodotus (II, 4, 15, 99), apparently corroborates this, as it makes Upper Egypt, and particularly the region of Thebes, the seat of the first Egyptian kingdom, under a king whom Herodotus calls Menes, a name not found in Egyptian records. Diodorus Siculus (first century B.C.E.) records a similar view. (Diodorus of Sicily, I, 45, 1) The Egyptian tradition set forth by these Greek historians may be a feeble echo of the true history presented in the Bible regarding Mizraim (whose name came to stand for Egypt) and his descendants, including Pathrusim.?—Ge 10:13, 14.

Following the desolation of Judah by Nebuchadnezzar, a remnant of the Jews fled into Egypt. Among the places listed in which they dwelt are Migdol, Tahpanhes, Noph (all cities of Lower Egypt), and “the land of Pathros.” (Jer 44:1) Here they engaged in idolatrous worship, resulting in Jehovah’s condemnation of them and the warning of a coming conquest of Egypt by Nebuchadnezzar. (Jer 44:15, 26-30) Papyrus evidence of the fifth century B.C.E. shows a Jewish colony situated all the way at the southern end of ancient Egypt at Elephantine by Syene.

So it would seem Jehovah has led us to two of the end time nations where the remnants of Israel will be gathered.

We are in need of your help in preparing the people that they might obey Jehovah. I will not send James there until we have the money on hand to complete the work and do it properly and at the same time we have other obligations to maintain in the Philippines as well. If you have not already begun to support this web site, we ask that you now consider doing so. You can see what we are doing and the efforts we have put forward.

Thank you for considering this work. Please go to the donation page or you can send a cheque or money order to:

Day One Report – Burundi 2018

Well, it was one hell of a long flight getting here. For the three weeks leading up to this trip, I had planned on spending a considerable amount of time working on some new lessons that I could teach while in Burundi. You know the old saying, “We make plans and YHVH laughs!” Well, this time was no different, and despite my best efforts I only managed to put together maybe a dozen or so topics including two, Grace and Under the Law, that they have been having the most difficulty dealing with in Africa.

So the week before I had to leave I had more than my share of issues to deal with. So now I took only the last Shabbat before I left for Africa and the following Sunday and composed what I hope to be one of my most exciting teachings, dealing with Torah.

In Burundi, now, Bishop Telesphore exclaimed to me while driving in from the airport how Burundi is just going Torah crazy. I, of course, had to ask what he was referring to and he mentioned that the word, that being the Torah, in general, is the topic on most if not all of his 230+ churches, but that they are so hungry for more, that his life has become nothing more than a flash of activity trying to minister to everyone and still look after his own family.

Exciting news of course and the more we discussed the experiences of the past year since I was last here, the more excited we both became for the next two weeks, and his plans on how best to cover as many people as possible and I mean mostly the leaders but not exclusively just them. Next week we have a four-day seminar where I will be covering many topics which I will cover in detail at some point but not yet. I do have to teach on “Grace” and of course the issue with Paul and “Under the Law” where they are still having to struggle with these church nightmares of misinterpretation and not looking at the context before people open their mouth.

In the meantime, I will be going around to many of the local only churches, and if you had visited here you would understand why I say only local because it takes forever to get anywhere due to traffic and roads in the country. So to maximize my time we decided to best just deal with as many pastors as possible and then whoever shows up. I have to admit this trip I feel more excited than usual like something big is about to happen. Only time will tell.

I know that Joe would like to have this report go on for pages, but I have only slept maybe a few hours in the last 4 days so I am closing the laptop and turning in for an early night. Talk more soon.

Report Day #2 – Burundi

Sorry, the internet is really bad as you well know it can be here so pics may have to wait but I will keep trying to send out some.

Well after sleeping for more than 12 hours I awoke with lots of energy and very excited about today's lessons. Before anyone asks me, yes once I get back I will be doing my best to record all of the messages that I teach here and put them up online for you to listen. Thank you goes out to those who have supported this effort here in Burundi. No matter how many times I come here I can never get over how much the people are starving to learn more about the Bible.

Today's lessons were on Grace and Under the Law. Of course, I had created a new teaching just before I left regarding the function and purpose of Torah and its role in our lives according to recent study and books I read. And of course, once you start down one of these subjects you will or at least should find that they all overlap which was very difficult not to rabbit trail down and off topic.

What would normally be a topic riddled with controversy and argument back home, was received with open arms and welcomed. As I opened up as many scriptures as possible without taking forever, which can happen when using a translator. But I digress. I spoke On Grace like I mentioned before, and you expect a bit of resistance or discussion but there is none here only open ears and hearts. I guess when your life is pretty simple as they are here, there is not much to get in the way of past Christian doctrine to fight with.

I also went into detail as to Paul's teachings on "Under The Law", one of my favorites. I never finished it but with all the talk about Grace and other Torah subjects, they were more than on board with the message and understood the simplicity of being obedient to Torah. Again it is such a sigh of relief when you can just teach and not have people getting up in your face over past doctrine issues.

Once done for the day Bishop Telesphore and I went for lunch, and then I drilled him on what I had spoken on that morning. I wanted to make sure that he really got the message. He mentioned that just the other day he ran into some Korean people trying to teach on the Tabernacle and he had to step in and correct them in many areas because their teaching was very flawed as he said. I taught on the tabernacle last year and how it correlates to the feasts and many other things in scripture. He was so excited to be sharing with them and they left thanking him for correcting them on their error. Again, totally amazing when the ego does not come into play. Aside from the heat and smell over here I could see sticking around to teach more long term and really get into some serious depth with these people.

After simplifying "Grace" and how it came into play in the Bible, and then discussing "Law" once again with Telesphore, we ate our lunch and I returned back to the hotel to write this email and prepare more for tomorrow. We will be heading back to the same church once again to go in depth about Torah and its function in the Bible and our lives, the role, purpose, and weight it should hold in one's lives. I think it will be another full house. Until tomorrow. Take care.

From Burundi, James Relf

Report Day #3 – Burundi

It's hard to believe that it is already going to be starting Shabbat. Today was an amazing day once again as I returned to the same church I taught in yesterday, Today was all about Torah, and of course, you can't teach about Torah without going into the commandments which then eventually leads to Shabbat. I was amazed at how fast this day went speaking for close to two hours before we had to leave.

What I did not realize at first was that this church was doing the Sunday thing, playing church, and had no idea about the Sabbath. As the eyes on me went from what is this guy going to talk about to please don't stop talking, I could see it on their faces the deeper I dug into the many purposes of Torah. I think the most important one that hit them was about a relationship and the marriage that took place between Israel and YHVH.

I went through each aspect in the Torah that had to do with the marriage between Israel and YHVH, and their pens could not write fast enough. I could tell I had hit the spot and YHVH was using me to jump start this crowd. While I have seen this before, there was a hunger that I have not seen. Slowly and going over each step in Exodus, reading the different stages and explaining what everything meant, when I got to the Ten Commandments, Exodus 20, the pens stopped for a moment. It was like they were hearing it all for the first time and I was the one that got to turn on the light bulb. What a privilege!

I expressed YHVH name, and went through it in detail and explained the first commandment, 2nd commandment, third commandment, then I hit them with the Sabbath. I went through the laws concerning the day and why it is so significant for them. Then I realized this was something they never had in their years coming to church. Then I understood what was missing here.

Over lunch I spoke with Telesphore and Elaina about what they have found is the most important aspect they have found so far since I introduced them to Torah and what they have seen in Burundi, Congo, Rwanda, and Tanzania and even Kenya. It was a relationship with YHVH. The whole purpose for us to learn Torah and His Word was to develop a relationship with our creator. If we have a deep relationship with YHVH we are less likely to be the ones that do something to hurt HIM, by breaking His commandments. For many years before I came here, I have now been told that many people have been church hopping, which is not uncommon in North America, we go until we find the right flavour of a message that makes us feel comfortable. Well not here. They have been waiting for answers and since the Pastors do not study the Torah it only makes sense that they would not know about such a thing or that it was even possible.

So getting back to the service. After I was done explaining everything about the Sabbath, I was only halfway through my teaching on Torah, but my time had run out. So I sat down after thanking them. Then the Pastor got up and requested if I could to answer some questions. Of course! So back I went to the front and spoke again about when Sabbath started once again, covering the laws for keeping it properly. At one point Telesphore got up to assist in the answer because he could answer it quicker not needing a translator, and while he was speaking I heard a voice in my head start saying something about why Pastors work on Shabbat and none else. The next thing I heard was a question regarding why the Pastor was allowed to teach but not them. Too cool.

So I went into a bit about the Levites working on Sabbath, Yeshua teaching in the temple on Sabbath and a bit more where I felt lead to speak about and the whole place went nuts, in a good way. Everyone was excited and up on their feet, as the Pastor announced that Sabbath service would be held tomorrow on the Sabbath and not on Sunday from now on. This was what they had been waiting for and seeking, the relationship that had been missing from their lives. We take too much for granted in North America and sometimes I don't think we even consider what is at stake and how privileged we are to have so much. My final words to them and I wish I had more time, was to make sure that the rest of the teaching would be given to their Pastor and he would finish what I started. The mantle was now handed down much like Moses handing down to Joshua. My work here was down for now.

I guess the real purpose of this work here is not just to teach them the contents of the Bible but to open the hearts to the relationship that David had and so many of us do not understand is possible with our Father in Heaven. When these people see that this is possible, the rest although will not be easy, but the walls are down and the heart is open to accept more. No more fighting about what day, no more hopping from church to church looking for the right place to go to church, now its personal and in a world where there is so little, to be able to offer them so much, is truly a miracle in the making.

Praise Yahweh! If the rest of the trip is anything like so far has been then I eagerly wait until tomorrow when I am allowed to speak once more for my Father and on Sabbath to boot. I hope those people who read this can now see the work that lays ahead and that everyone who stepped up to help and support this effort can now understand how vital it is that this work continues They are just plain old, hungry for Truth and His name is YHVH our Elohim.

May YHVH grant you all a wonderful Sabbath, I know mine will be.

Pastor James Relf

P.S. The image is of myself of course and Edmond my faithful translator. The Poster is from eriktology.net, the Noon Samek poster, which not only shows all the letter of Hebrew in Paleo but also the Noon Samek represents the Burning bush, snake on a pole and also Messiah if I am not mistaken. I simply used it to break down "TORAH" and show them what it means. Plus it looks nice.

Report Day #4 – Burundi

I went back to a familiar church today, last year when I was here they had not finished the main wall of the church. The front wall was completed but they also raised the roof (see picture) to let in more air, but this time there was no air flow especially with three churches crammed in there for my meeting. The people were as always more than welcoming and ready to learn. Telesphore wanted me to speak about Torah and clarify about Grace and also add in some about keeping the Sabbath. While most here were already keeping the Sabbath I did not feel like I need to really go into a great amount of detail about it but in the end, I still covered some of the aspects and importance of keeping the Sabbath. You know they are so hungry when they hang on every word you say and they look concerned when you stop. Again a big problem when you only have so much time and too much to cover.

The problem that I have found at each place that I visit is that there is just not enough time to cover everything that should be taught. I mean even if I had a couple of weeks, which might be enough to cover the basics of the basics, it is a lot to throw at people and to expect them to remember everything in only a few sittings while it took me years to learn it all. I still struggle with it all. Despite my efforts in teaching I sometimes still feel inadequate to do this work.

So as per our request at the end of the service I have been asked to return back on Tuesday morning to teach them on the Feasts of YHVH, Sighting the new Moon, and I will of course because it fits right in with discussions about the Sabbatical years. They have put in a special request to know and be taught everything about the Tabernacle of Moshe and that is my favourite subject, but to give the level of detail they would like would take me another week to go over everything and I don't know if these people are ready for that information. I will have to pray and see what I am lead to on.

On my return trip back to the hotel I had a good amount of time to speak with Ellena, Telesphore's wife, since Telesphore stayed behind to discuss things with the Pastor of the church and other matters. She of course has many questions as I know from spend time with her while she was in Israel with us last year. Her passion to learn and ask the tough questions has not diminished in any way from last year and she drilled me for information once again regarding Torah. She is seeking a deeper relationship with YHVH, like many of us and would ask questions about King David, Torah, Tabernacle, and many other topics. Good thing we happened to have Edward the translator in the car with us so he could translate. While she is learning English, when she gets excited she speaks very fast Kirundi, and of course, I do not understand. It was an eye opening trip.

Near the end of the journey, through some very bad traffic, we got talking about the trials of YHVH and how they help us to be more like the Messiah's life, in other words, prepare for the Kingdom. We spoke on putting other's first and the needs of others, and I found myself saying things I was myself was not yet ready to accept. When they brought up the question of whether or not I would come for a couple of years and stay to teach, because there is so much to learn, in my mind I questioned myself and whether or not I was ready to put myself aside to do the work I am sure I have been preparing myself for my whole life.

Since I started this walk 33 years ago I knew deep inside that I would go to Africa. That feeling has never left. Yet each time I come here, with this trip being the exception, I see the place and yes it is not the most beautiful, or cleanest city, better than Cairo, and I guess that does bother me. Sure anyone could endure for a couple of weeks to do something for YHVH, but is it really a sacrifice, is it really serving him know that I would be going home to something better. I guess I have always known that to truly serve one must put oneself aside and look at the work only. I am sure Yeshua's disciples did not turn down going to places or talking to certain people because it was not the most favourable location.

Burundi is full of hungry people who want to know the truth of YHVH and compared to North America where they have been spoon fed this message their whole lives, while many of the people here simply have been struggling to survive each day are now seeking Him. I guess I have much to think on the remainder of my trip. Of course staying here would require some help to do just that. The visa aspect never an issue with one phone call to the President and that would all be taken care of, and housing would be taken care of by Telesphore, (just no air conditioning) and very simple food. Life still requires that I pay some bills and unless YHVH steps up to help with that then this may prove more difficult. I am not saying yes at this point, or no, I need to do some praying about this matter and I would appreciate some help with all those out there who would like to pray and possible assist in this endeavour. I do know one thing, we will not get far unless I can get about $1500US to improve Telesphore truck first.

For now, finish what I came here to do and then more prayer. We shall see what tomorrow brings but I think tomorrow is a quiet day for me which is fine and give me time to prepare for next week. Until then, thanks for reading.

Report Day #5 – Burundi Joe

No this is not another update because I did not teach today, but Telesphore and I did manage to sit down and talk about a longer stay possibly beginning of the year, but nothing is set. I still have to discuss with Toni and we still need to see if people will get behind this.

Tomorrow after I teach at this new location, we will be going to see a few places, small but it's only going to be me there, and we are already discussing material that would be covered if this is done. Our plan is that we will cover all 17 provinces of Burundi, but instead of going to every church, we would arrange to meet a group of Pastors from local churches to one location where they would be taught from Monday to Sabbath. A total of 11 teachings will be covered, yes including New moon, Feasts and Sabbatical years, again all foundational stuff. Nothing advanced because they are just not ready for any of that anywhere.

Telesphore has been approached many times over the past six months by other church pastors from other countries to come and preach, and he has turned them all away. When they ask why he explains that he now only teaches the whole Bible including Torah and the Feasts, he has been ridiculed by them as a hypocrite and legalistic. He told me over lunch today and just laughed about it saying he for the first time in years including his wife, are actually starting to see change in the people who celebrate Sabbath and the feasts even though they do not yet really understand it all. At least they are trying.

This is why we need this to work so that I can complete the work of training up the Pastors so that they will at least have their head on straight and all be moving in the same direction. The amount of work ahead is a bit scary but I felt that this is the right direction to go in and take.

Next, we will be doing some calculations for the finance to see how this is all going to work out. I will be in touch with you again soon as we gather the info.

James

Today has been an interesting day as I saw firsthand the enemy at work or so it appeared. I was to teach today not more than 10 minutes from downtown and at the last minute while waiting for Telesphore, along walked Edmond. Let me start from the beginning.

On Sabbath I spoke at one of the previous churches, I had attended and when it all ended a request had been put forth for me to return on Tuesday. On Monday I assumed that I would not be teaching and as usual with Telesphore he assured me that, no I would be teaching just outside of the city. No big deal, but when I started to try and decide what I should be teaching on with this relatively new group, that's when everything started going wrong. When I needed to use the internet, the internet when down, when I went to use the printer, they were out of paper, when I tried to call Telesphore to get material ready his phone was shut off or unreachable. So I went to bed stressed about the next day thinking of what I could do to prepare for the meeting.

Next morning, actually I never slept the whole night trying to figure out what I should do about long-term relocation to Burundi for teaching, what was I going to teach, what would I teach on Tuesday, basically I stressed myself out and did not sleep. By 5:30 I just got up and stayed up. Fortunately, this morning despite not sleeping I did not have a headache and felt fine. So once they appeared on the desk downstairs I got my pages ready and printed, after they resupplied, and then spent the next three hours going over what feels like over a hundred scriptures on Salvation. As the time ticked away, I sat on the balcony reading and looking at everything for this basic foundational teaching, and enjoying every minute as well. I felt so calm sitting there in the cooler morning air just after the rain, with the painters painting the roof right next door and the smell of paint fumes wafting my direction, I was determined not to let anything stop me until I looked up all my references.

9:15 am and I finished the last scripture and knew my subject for the morning. I was sure that this was going to be the message and it was pretty good considering what it took to complete it on time. I then packed up my bag and water for the day, and heading downstairs, knowing that I would still have to wait for Telesphore because he is rarely on time. At 9:30 Edmond my translator and friend showed up and told me he had a message from Telesphore and that I would not be going.

Apparently, each time I come to the country he has to inform the security council of where I will be teaching and they intern tell him if it is safe to proceed to said location. It appears that this particular area was part of the area where all the chaos started in 2015 during the election and the security council were still having issues with them so it was best if I did not go. I agreed and thought this was a wonderful provision by YHVH to take care of me like this.

So Edmond and I sat there as the clouds opened and flooded the streets, like a mini monsoon had hit, and I went over the whole teaching that we would now be teaching to the church on Tuesday instead of what they had requested, which in my opinion felt was a bit over their head as they were just starting to learn about and walk in obedience with the Sabbath. With everything, I take this work very serious since I know the scripture warns about teachers who take it too lightly and without regard for those whom they are teaching. I felt that something closer to their level would be more appropriate so I will be covering the topic of Salvation with the intent of looking at it from all angles to make them think and regard this with the utmost respect that this walk deserves.

Time went by, and finally, Telesphore showed up just around 2 pm, with a good report about this day teaching to this group. I was also informed that I would be seeing many of the officials on Friday this week when up to 50 head pastors and bishops would be attending to learn more from me about Torah. So despite all the actions to stop this message and me from teaching, I will be teaching it tomorrow and also seeing the leaders from the area anyway.

As per your request, I did manage to go and look at a few places, and I found it interesting that each house kept getting bigger and bigger until I was looking at a 4 bedroom house with three bathrooms, two kitchens, and who knows how many other rooms. Like I need something like that, come on! We also started around $500 US and they went up to 850 per month I believe for everything except internet. I think after speaking with Telesphore we both decided that a budget of around $500 / month would be pretty accurate and doable. Again that only covers the roof over my head and bed, we still have to consider food, travel, internet, lodgings while on the road, printing, I think. So for a better expense report, that will have to wait a bit more. Doing what I can to find into his schedule.

James

Report Day #6 – Burundi

What a glorious day, no really! It was sunny and warm but not too hot, yet I still sweated very much while teaching. What do you expect its Africa and I was inside a mud brick church with a metal roof. It could have been worse, I could have been out in the sun teaching and that would have been very hot.

I went back to the same church as on Sabbath again to do some follow up teachings. While I have many ideas and subject to choose from and all of theirs were great but since they had just started keep Sabbath, learning about the Tabernacle or Priestly garments, I thought might not be a good idea. And last night while sleeping I had this idea of continuing where I left off about salvation and how it works. For many of the people then, when asked, not many could in any way prove or even say they were saved because they had not idea what it meant. I also found out the for many, salvation, works, grace, and faith was not something they had even heard of before and that left me shocked.

I am not sure if I should blame the Pastors or blame those who came before them (other white men from North America). This is the state of the people over here no matter where you go. They are so happen when someone can open the Bible and lead them through a subject from start to finish. Or for that matter even know what they were actually speaking about. Again, today I had about 8 Pastors from the area and on Friday this week will be instructing around fifty Pastors and leaders from different congregations and faiths who have heard about me and the material I have been talking about.

The truth is folks, is this country is starving and not only for food but also knowledge of the Word of YHWH. I showed them today how to prove the Yeshua is the Messiah leading them back through the Word and you should have seen their faces. It was like they won the lottery or something. I have been extremely blessed during this trip with good health, weather and the opportunity to teach the hungry. I have today been invited to teach to the churches in Mumbi, and Uganda as well. That of course only happen if this door stays open and for a longer stay then just two weeks.

So in light of that idea, Telesphore and I have cooked up a plan to have me come and stay for minimum 6 months to a year. That way we can hit all the leaders from the 240 plus churches he manages, and possible do some teaching in some surrounding countries as well to take the message of Torah outside of Burundi. We would be setting up 6 primary locations around Burundi, with one in the city here, and five elsewhere, and then use those locations to hit all surrounding Pastors. Quite doable according to Telesphore. We would teach the first two weeks of each month out at a teaching centre and then do follow up for the remaining two weeks as well as hit a few local churches as well. All the while building a solid foundation based on nothing but the Word of YHWH. A financial breakdown to follow soon.

The first pic was from Sabbath, a packed house. Bottom two are from today, not as many but just as hungry and also during the week so not as many available. Still an awesome day.

Thanks again to everyone who helped to support this mission. Unfortunately, this work has just begun.

James

Report Day #7 – Burundi

Today was beautiful as we travelled up the mountains alongside the lake here in Burundi. I cannot pronounce the name of this place, but once we left the main road it was a pretty much climb for about 5 miles over some of the roughest roads I have been on. The blessing was that I was not squished in the back seat with 4 adult Pastors. Remember folks this vehicle that we are driving around belongs to Bishop Telesphore and Adas you will see from a few images, the windshield has so many cracks in it, it is held together by stickers and tape. The tires are bald, the image is the best one on the truck and there are no more shocks left in it. So travel on these type of roads, which is pretty much most of them, you come out feeling like an over shaken martini. My biggest fear is hitting my head on the roof and handle above the door, which I have done many times already. This is basically a Toyota 4x4 and not meant to carry as many as we have even today, 10 people crammed in it to head back down the mountain. Lots of fun, but we could use some help to get a few repairs made on it.

Next the church again another mud brick building, again very fine with me, but this one had no power and whence we got to the top of the mountain, the rain started shortly after I started speaking once again, 5th time this trip, and never stopped until I stopped speaking and sat down. Which meant that it was very dark inside the church and difficult to read my notes and Bible. I spoke once again on Salvation as per Telesphore's request and then one of the other Pastors got up and spoke a bit as well on the name of Yeshua and breaking down idols if I got the correct interpretation. I did have this little tiny girl keep walking around in the aisle who was so cute that I had to take her picture. She had to be about maybe 1 or two.

It just about kills me to see these people sitting here freezing, not cold for me, wrapped in rags and hungry for the truth. When I was about to leave I had many of them come up to me and ask me to return with more teachings. Again, not sure when and if that will happen and that is the problem that I am dealing with. I almost feel, well almost is an understatement, when I have to come in give them a portion of truth and then walk away when I know they are hungry. It does not seem fair. And when I see the Pastor sitting there writing down everything I say, which is fine, but it also tells me he, who I leading a few churches around the area, is clueless to the truth and that up till then they had been fed catholic nonsense and that the Old Testament was no longer worth reading. Makes me mad!

The harvest is so ripe over here I am sure that YHVH is losing some because there are not enough people to pull it in. Not sure if I mentioned it before but currently Telesphore has been Turing down Pastors who want to come and teach, and when he questions them about teaching Torah, then all say the same thing, it's done away with. So he has turned them all away. No more will we mislead the people of Burundi that are under his churches. Encouraging yes, but the amount of work is huge. But we have a plan that we think might work.

Tomorrow I will be addressing about ten big leaders in the city who have been coming to Telesphore and asking questions, and while he has been doing a good job, they want to hear it from the one who has been teaching this truth. Then on Friday, I address another 50 pastors, again with teaching and questions after, and as much as I would love to stay and chat I have to prepare for tomorrow and get before the Father for guidance.

Thank you all for your support in this ministry.

Report Day #8 – Burundi - Notes are not clearly identified for this day.

Report Day #9 – Burundi

Another day closer to leaving and I feel sometimes as if I have only added one drop to the bucket of water. Today was great as I returned to one of my favourite churches in the city of Burundi up on the hill. It has a great view of the city but I can see more erosion leading up to it and given a few more years and the whole church might just roll off the hill. Who knows?

Today was a bit different as I was to speak with about 12 younger pastors who have been questions some of the material from the past two years. Also, I found out that only about half of them were even keeping the Sabbath, so that was one thing that I had to resolve as well. First up, though was many questions regarding the Sabbatical years and yes Joe, even I was surprised by home much of it I remembered. I wanted to keep my answers simple but you know how one topic leads into another and of course it's easier to explain if they know something else, so what should have taken maybe 10 minutes took close to an hour but I ended up covering much more in order for them to understand why they needed to keep the Sabbatical years in the first part.

Of course, as I explained it to them, if they are not keeping the Sabbath to start with or the feasts, then talking about the sabbatical year is only going to leave them with more questions. So I covered it all starting with why the Sabbath is so important, then moved on to a very short intro in the Feasts of YHVH, and then go into the Sabbatical Years. Once all the was covered I continued with the questions and of course answers, and in total with some words of encouragement to them as well I was about an hour and a half. Then one of Telesphore's senior pastors stood and talked about why 2020 was so important and their plans and goals to reach all of Burundi and the surrounding countries before that date.

That being said none of it will be possible unless I am able to return and teach up at least to the foundation level, and then move on from there. Many of the Pastors I am sad to say have only bits and pieces and this should have been done from the start as I am seeing many holes in their faith that are all foundational stuff and they should know it. The great news is that at least they now recognize their lack of knowledge and understanding of YHVH's plan and the need to be taught. Their hunger is so easy to see when I speak as they write it all down. Although I have no proof I am pretty sure that after today and answering all the questions, that everyone will not be keeping Sabbath and trying to learn more about the feasts and so forth. I did not even think of it about taking a picture of me teaching until after I was done speaking and then I got my translator to take some with Telesphore up speaking on Salvation and sharing some of the stuff that I taught him over the past week. Of course, for most of it, I do not understand and that is why I keep my translator around to help me understand. Funny though sometimes I know what they are saying before it gets translated, so either I am picking it up (not likely), or the Ruach is whispering in my ear. Either way, I'm ok with and yes it would be great to be able to teach without having to wait on a translator but their language is very complicated dialect to learn.

Overall I would say that it was a very good session and now tomorrow I have another 60 or so senior pastors coming in from around the country to hear more teachings. Probably questions as well which is fine with me. I must be getting better doing this because I am more comfortable teaching even then when I first came here this trip. This is such an awesome work to be part of.

Day #10 Burundi

This was the day that I had been waiting for to speak in front of about 60 local pastors once again, and some of them have never heard of Torah. There was a few from the 7th Day Adventist, one whom has been Pastoring for 25 years now, and when I taught on Salvation, he never heard of half of my message. I have learned that you can only go so far with our own words and so I have scripture references for everything I say and can back up, which is exactly the way I have instructed them to teach. I told them that if they only use scripture to prove scripture then YHVH will not hold them accountable to the people in their church, unless they try and twist it into something that it does not really say.

Speaking to them about the interpretation of scripture and the wealth of knowledge that one can glean from a simple portion or a few verses, seemed quite odd for them. There was one Pastor who was staring so hard I honestly thought he eyes were going to come out of his skull. Almost creepy, but while some fell asleep due to the heat in the room, he never missed a beat and I could see him writing down everything. I also noticed that when I asked everyone to write down all references to look it up later, some did not even bring their Bibles, which for me was a bit depressing seeing this leader who did not think it necessary.

Moving on and of course right after the meeting, which ended as per a request by 11:30 am, so that people could leave and get home to prepare for Sabbath, we had at least a half dozen invitations to teach at other churches. So I will be teaching tomorrow and Sunday and heading home on Monday. Again folks they really do not get any of this type of teachings over here at all from anybody before we came here. It has been strictly "Christian" doctrine and lies. I have noticed that I have been a bit more forceful when it comes to instructing and making sure that as leaders they have a responsibility to teach all this material and if they are not, then where are they leading their flocks? At some point during this trip it finally sunk in and now I am almost ticked off because of the lack of TRUTH that has been seeded around this and surrounding countries, and that for years and years, the lies that have ruled these people. I see this time YHVH is opening the door one more time for them to have a chance to be redeemed, and now that they are finding out what that actually means, I have been assured by Bishop Teleshore that they are paying attention and making changes. Time will tell.

There has never been a lack of evidence to support the need or in this case the results of the hunger for the truth, cause I could walk into any church and teach and be asked to stay and be their Pastor.

So I see this plan to return, possible one final time, and travel to six major areas:

Makamba, Rutana, Ngozi, Bubanza, Bujumbura Marie, and Bujumbura Rural.

By going to these locations once each month, spending two weeks at each location will allow us to teach and cover the basic foundational teachings, listed below:

- 1) Are You Really Saved?
- 2) Introduction to Torah
- 3) Keeping the Sabbaths
- 4) Feasts of YHVH
- 5) New Moon and Sabbatical Years
- 6) Dietary Laws
- 7) Tithing
- 8) Understanding the Ruach/Spirit
- 9) Baptism of Fire
- 10) The Tabernacle of Moses

This is what is being worked on now, and while there is a ton of subjects I have felt that this will cover all the basics and give them a good idea of the depth of scripture and that this is just the beginning. We have a great deal of interest each place we have been and all I am getting is when is this going to happen. My only answer right now is, it's in His hands.

I will continue to send another report tomorrow after I complete teaching in the morning. Until then, signing out.

Joe here is what Telesphore sent me regarding the location of the training centres that we would like to hit. To be honest I am not looking forward to the trips but this is the price that has to be paid in order to get this message out to everyone and make this happen. I guess I will need a second suitcase just for back pills and nausea meds.

Talk soon.

Final Teaching Burundi

Today is my last day to teach. We went for a long trip out of the city and this time we had the whole family crammed in the truck, Telesphore, his wife, 5 kids, Edmond my translator and Pastor Lewis. Then we stopped half way and picked up a few more. I swear this guy needs a bigger truck, bus or something. Remember this is only a small Toyota 4x4 meant for maybe five adults and many times we are driving around with that in just the back seat, and then more in the read. It was cozy but fine. Half way there we hit the rain once again, and it came down very hard. Again, no big deal at least it was not going to be very hot while teaching. We did manage to finally find the off the main road path that took us to the church area, but because I was coming, they had invited some pastors from around the area to hear me speak. We even had a pastor and his wife drive 5 hours from the border of Tanzania to hear me as well.

There was lots of kids screaming and yelling as there always is when I show up. It's too funny, as I am known as the great white ape! I just laugh every time. When we got out of the truck the water was flowing right under our feet and we hurried over to the warped area. Apparently there was not enough room in the church so they decided to do this outside. No big deal, I just had to avoid the rain coming through the tarps with holes everywhere. It was a lot of fun I have to admit. The rain did eventually stop and the sun did come out about ten minutes after I started teaching, I think YHVH heard my prayers as I did not want everyone to get soaked and cold. It was fine for me but all the women were wrapping themselves up in their blankets.

The session went over well as I taught about Salvation once again. At first they sang songs for almost an hour and half before I even started teaching, again fine, but the bouncy ride over was causing me to get a headache and I wanted to make sure I completed it before the full on headache kicked in. So back to teaching. Once I finished, about an hour, I was asked if after they sung some more songs, I could talk about Sabbath and how to keep it according to Torah, and then maybe some questions. I love the question section of any teaching because you can see where and what they are interested in. Questions came about Sabbath, the Feasts because they had never kept them, then about "No man can know....", which I love to answer because it can cover so many topics. Over all I think we were there for another hour after that and left around 2pm to head back to the city.

I told them one of my stories about YHVH moving in my life as an example of His presence. The story without going into it, concerned a book that I had been asked to read, and tried to obtain and read without success. It was only after three months and travelling half way around the world to Australia, and then meeting a man up in the mountains in the middle of the night, that I finally obtained the book. This man whom I have never met, had been holding this same book I had been chasing, for me for the past three months and every time he tried to give it away, YHVH would tell him that it was for me and I would come. I always get choked up when I tell that story because I am so amazed at the extreme lengths that YHVH goes through to make things happen. Some of the ladies in the audience and a few of the senior Pastors were sipping the tears out of their eyes along with me, as I finished. In truth folks there is nothing too difficult for YHVH to accomplish, after all He told me I would go to Africa and it only took Him thirty years to get me ready enough to do the work.

I would just like to say that now the seeds have been planted over here for the past three years, I feel it is now time to finish the work that I started. The seeds are growing very fast and the soil is very fertile and the work is growing as well. The proof of this is everywhere we go. More than a dozen people came up to me before I was allowed to get in the truck to leave telling me things like, "we need you here", "a great blessing to Africa". "When are you coming back" and more. In my mind there is no doubt that this is truly YHVH's hand at work and that this was supposed to happen. But in order for me to complete the work I must make one more trip to completely train up all the Pastors so that they can in turn teach their flocks and pass that seed of YHVH and His Torah onto others. Will you help us make this happen? Signing off, Burundi, Africa

Closing Comments From Burundi

To be certain I am not sure why I am writing this email. I guess I wanted to say that this trip has been for me one of the most profitable (not money), enjoyable, positive, and enlightening ones I have made of the four visits so far. My mind, for the most part, has been clear and focused, allowing me to teach with the best results, able to hear the Ruach when needed, prayers answered, and when studying after each day the most productive and learned I have encountered in years. While I am not saying that coming here is the only place that I have clarity, I think for me I am becoming more comfortable with myself and what I am here to accomplish. While I understand that it is not me doing this amazing work but Him who sent me, I am still part of the process and for that after waiting for 30 years to be here, I feel at home.

When you first come to Africa and in my case Burundi, one is overwhelmed with the smell and poverty that lays about you no matter where you drive in this country. The roads are deplorable compared to back home, the conditions and less than that again of back home, and yet despite all of this, these people seem to thrive and are to the most part happy. Many days after teaching I sit on my balcony, 2nd floor, and watch the people go by. They seem to know most everyone and are greeted with smiles, handshakes, and hugs and while all of this may seem too affectionate back home, this is the norm here. There is a closeness that I do not see even in Canada where everyone basically sticks to themselves, which in reality leads only to loneliness and depression.

Whenever I go out to teach, the people are always celebrating not only my arrival but also the fact that they are going to learn something new. You can see it in their faces when I show up and when I teach the truth of Torah, for most, their eye never break contact with mine. It's like they have been starving for so long to hear this message which only leads me to the one single conclusion, this is their time. Over the years and probably decades, people have been coming here to straighten out the poor black man like we are doing them some sort of favour only to pat ourselves on the back when we leave like you did a good job. And while it is true that everyone needs to hear the "good news" or in my case the truth of Torah, up till now it has done them no good. The only reason that I have found over the past four trips is that each time they come, it is all about Jesus Christ, and Christmas, but nothing about the truth, Torah, Messiah, YHVH. Thus it has left them with a bad taste in their mouth and no relationship in their faith.

Of course, we see this more and more even in our own countries because when faith is taught it lacks the truth and substance of what it was meant for and that, as I see it anyway, a relationship with our Father. Like growing up in an abusive home, there is no relationship, only suffering which in turn only produces bitterness and loneliness which is opposite to that which it should be. I refer to King David in the Word, he shows us the type of relationship that is possible with YHVH and something we should all be striving for, he tabernacled with YHVH. Look it up, it's a beautiful story.

Now the tides seem to be changing and people here according to those that I have taught and spoken with, they are finding solid ground to base their faith on and when you live as simply as they do over here, this is all that they have to drive them forward each day. So it is with no doubt in my mind that in doing this work and seeing the works of these people, and yes I said "works" which is really the only real proof and evidence of our faith that can be seen, I know that YHVH has come to stay. I may have said it before but I will say it again, there is no room here for false teaching anymore. If we are truly in the last days which has been preached for decades, then the truth must be placed before the people, and they must be given the choice to know it before it is too late. I feel this is my task here and I accept this with open arms. I have been humbled to do this work and tend for this flock though like Moses it can be very daunting at times, I feel that as I grow older I am seeing much more clearly what matters and what is irrelevant in this life. I give all the praise and glory to Him who sent me.

I want to thank all those supporters who have made this trip and the past three trips to Burundi possible by your generous donations that were used to pay for the airfare and hotel and travel on each trip. I also want to thank Joseph Dumond and SightedMoon for giving me a free hand in sending me here to teach these basic truths. I pray we can all come together to make the next return trip to Burundi even more blessed for these people and at the same time not to ignore the work Joseph is doing with Aike in the Philippines.

Yehovah is doing a work in these two countries and we all need to help this work to grow. May YHVH Bless You and Keep You All.

Sightedmoon.coms Goals and How you can be a part of it

Brethren as you read here each week you are learning the many valuable truths that can only be understood by understanding the Sabbath, the Holy Days and the Sabbatical and Jubilee years. Many teach about Jesus and only the New Testament. A few others teach about the Sabbath and even fewer still teach about the Holy Days. Then there are fewer than this who teach about keeping the Holy Days according to the sighting of the moon to begin the month and by the ripeness of the barley to begin the year.

As far as I know, Sightedmoon.com is the only one teaching you about the Sabbatical and Jubilee years and how they reveal end time prophecy. And we do not mix into any of our teachings things about the book of Enoch or the Book of Jubilees or Conspiracy lies that some mix in with the truth of Torah.

We strive to teach the Torah and only the Torah and we encourage those whom we can teach to also do the same and to obey the Torah. I am pleased to say we continue to prove all things which has been our motto from the start of this website.

We have made all our videos and all of our Newsletters free to anyone who wanted to learn from them. We have not charged a membership fee nor held back anything for only those who supported our work, unlike many other ministries. We have done our best to make them all free so that everyone could learn.

We see the end coming for the USA, Canada, The United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, The State of Israel and the rest of the 12 tribes of Israel. Many are about to die. So many in fact that only about 10% of these mighty populations will survive.

This past year we came to the understanding in Isaiah 11:11 of the places where the remnant would be brought back from. Those places where they would be brought back from captivity to Jerusalem just before the Great Tribulation actually begins. One of those places was the ends of the Nile which just so happened to be Burundi and Rwanda and Kenya. The other place we showed you was the Philippines the Isles of the Sea. But before I understood this verse in Isaiah, sightedmoon.com was already teaching and working with teachers in both of these places. And believe me, we had tried to reach many other nations before these two stepped up and asked to hear what we had to say.

Not only are we teaching in both places that are mentioned in Isaiah 11:11, but we have access directly to the leadership in both countries. This can only have happened by divine intervention of Yehovah. He led us to these two places and connected us to the leadership of both places at the same time. Absolutely unbelievable!! But truly inspired and encouraging.

We have asked for and sought opportunities to teach across the USA, Canada, The United Kingdom and Australia. Only to be turned away and attacked for asking and greatly rejected. Even in the Messianic world. This has been frustrating and greatly discouraging.

But once we spoke in the Philippines and then again in Burundi, the fires were lit and not just hundreds were interested but thousands were eager and still are to this day to learn these simple and basic truths about Yehovah. Whole churches are converting to the Sabbath one week after being taught by Telesphore and James or Aike about the truth. Whole Churches. In North America, I can't get 20 people to come to a meeting. But in Burundi, we had over a thousand come to hear me speak when I was there. In the Philippines, we regularly get hundreds to come out to hear our message from Aike and myself. We have over ten thousand respond to each of our ad campaigns in the Philippines.

So here is the rub in all of this.

East Africa, Burundi, Rwanda, The Democratic Republic of the Congo, Tanzania, and Kenya where Telesphore is teaching has extremely poor internet if any at all. All of the teachings must be done by word of mouth. In the Philippines, many have internet connections but can't afford to download anything due to the costs. Burundi is one of the poorest nations on earth and the Philippines is what is called a second world nation. We receive no financial help from either nation. Aike does get some donations, but never enough to evangelize the nation.

Most of the donations we receive here at Sightedmoon.com come from the USA. A little comes from Canada, The United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand.

The richest nations are the ones who are supporting this message, and at the same time, the richest nations have no interest in Torah. The poorest nations are, as James has been sharing with us, starving for these truths and eager to learn them sitting on dirt floors in hot buildings with no air conditioning, but they have no money to help.

We are hearing of the desire for people in Indonesia, India, Pakistan, China and Korea to learn these truths, but we do not have leaders in those nations that we can work with. Interpreters that are willing to help.

That is the way things are right now. Let me now share with our short-term goals.

We are about to hire a person to create short video teachings for us in the native Tagalog and English languages to be used across the Philippines to teach people via their iPhones. We have not yet ironed out the costs of this which will be on an ongoing basis and include the equipment to do so.

Aike has asked for help for another evangelistic campaign and for help to reach the Tribes people who are very isolated. This we are going to help with.

Telesphore and James have shared with us last week the cost of reaching out to the entire nation of Burundi over the course of six months. This did not include the cost of Air travel for James to get there again.

If we are able to develop contacts to any of the nations in Asia who would want to hear our message then this too will cost us for the air travel to go there and speak to those groups in those nation. This may require us to host the event and rent the facilities to have the event.

So right now we are in need of about $5000 to be spent on the Philippines right away. We need another $31000 to cover the cost of Telesphore and James teaching for 6 months throughout Burundi. And keep in mind I am not able to pay James for any of the work he does on a regular basis. Although I do try to pay him something when we can, it never matches the work he does for us all the time. And then we need to have about $10,000 set aside should we be invited to speak in any of the Asian nations we are striving to reach. Both Aike and Telesphore need new vehicles and the cost for one is about $26,000 US.

Do not forget that I work a full-time job to pay my own bills each month and I am considering retiring to free up my time to teach. But we wrestle with this and have not yet come to a decision.

So I am asking you to pray for more supporters to come forward. I am asking those of you who get all of our work for free to consider making a regular monthly donation of $50 a month. All of our work will remain free to everyone whether they support our work or not. Christians say the law is done away and yet they keep the Tithing law and tithe to their various churches religiously. Or else they might go to hell. I don't know. Many Messianics keep the Law and it is not done away and yet they will not tithe but say it is only the crops that are to be tithed. I have yet to receive a tenth of anyone's tomatoes.

At Sightedmoon.com we teach and believe that the tithe was for the Levites to look after the Temple. We do not have a Temple nor do we have Levites teaching these truths. I could argue that my own personal family tree comes from a Levitical line but I could not prove it in a court of law. So we do not ask for your tithes. We do ask for your donations though.

Some have been faithful to give us their donations on the High Days as Yehovah commanded them not to appear before Him empty-handed. Others have given to this work on a monthly basis which helps us to plan our work somewhat. Others send us cheques and we can take any cheque in any denomination and deposit it to our accounts. Do not worry about whether it is the US dollar or the Australian Dollar or the British pound or the Swiss franc or the Euro. We are able to take them all and use them for this work. The only nation our banks refuse to work with is South Africa. But PayPal will deal with them. If you prefer to use PayPal we are set up to accept funding through them but they do charge.

We can take money orders as well. Whatever method you feel comfortable in using we are able to accept them.

Some people also make a one-time donation or an annual donation and this too we humbly accept to do this work.

Just so you know we took all the funds we had before the Feast to send with James to give to Telesphore to support the work they have just done. If it was not for those who give on a regular basis then this might not have happened.

On behalf of James, Telesphore and the people of Burundi, Aike and the people of the Philippines, Matt who is now back in the USA working to build up his funds again, and myself I thank each one of you who has made this work possible and has shared in the blessing that come from doing a work like this.

Thank you for considering this work. Please go to the donation page or you can send a cheque or money order to

Joseph Dumond or to Sightedmoon or to Sightedmoon.com
