Shabbat Shalom Brethren,

On Dec 24 Hebrew Nations Pod Cast did a show with me as their guest which you can listen to at http://torah-2-the-nation.podomatic.com/entry/2010-12-24T12_44_27-08_00?utm_source=feedburner&utm_medium=feed&utm_campaign=Feed%3A+podomatic%2FHebrewNationRadio+%28HEBREW+NATION+RADIO+Podcast%29 as I share the Sabbatical and Jubilee Prophecies and the Prophecies of Abraham. This is such an appropriate intro to this week's News Letter. What has been is what shall be again. There is nothing new under the sun. This was a tough show for me to do as I try to explain these teachings to an audience that is brand new to this way of life and learning more.

In the news this past month have been a number of things for us to keep in mind as we move forward. Many of the following are from www.thetrumpet.com this past week.

Caught Sleeping

The summer of 1914 is a warning. Back then, as today, financial markets were zinging along. Inflation seemed to be under control.

Commodity prices were rising. Emerging markets were attracting investors.

The world, especially governments, were leveraging up on debt. The lessons of the stock market crash several years earlier had been forgotten.

Even after Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria was assassinated, the markets collectively yawned and went back to business as usual.

Stop and ponder that! The world was on the brink of the most disruptive political and economic event in history, and the markets were completely asleep! It wasn't until Austria actually sent its severe ultimatum to Serbia—almost a month later—that the markets woke up to the impending slaughter.

“In 1914, everyone knew that a war between Britain and Germany was possible. The popular press was full of it,” says Harvard historian Niall Ferguson. “But it’s as if investors didn’t want to factor that in until it was upon them.”

What a lesson about human nature.

People don’t like to think about catastrophes—let alone plan or prepare for them—until they are forced to. And by then, it is often too late!

To investors, the First World War was a shock. The stock markets were routed and officials shut down bourses in New York, London and Vienna. By July 30, all continental markets had shut their doors.

New York didn’t fully reopen for business as usual until April 1915. Global bond markets cratered too and lenders to many countries were never repaid.

The question for America is, if the smart money and the big investors of 1914 were so wrong, could they be wrong in 2011? At the end of 2010, the bond market has been in bull mode for 30 years. The stock market is hitting two-year highs, commodity prices are soaring. Yet look at the world around you. It is a messy place.

The truth is that the list of 10-sigma, black-swan type unforeseen events that carry the potential to crash global markets is probably bigger than ever today. But if Ferguson is right, the flash points staring us in the face are what should cause the most worry.

A Bad Year for California

Get away from California’s coastline, and watch your fortunes dip. For 2010 at least, that seems to be the lesson as six of the Golden State’s metro areas fell to the bottom 10 in Market Watch’s annual survey of the best U.S. cities for business. ...

Along with Riverside, Fresno, Stockton, Modesto, Sacramento and Bakersfield sunk to the bottom of the pack. And jobs are the main culprit. “If you’re looking at unemployment and job growth, it was not a good year for California,” said Stephen Levy, director of the Center for Continuing Study of the California Economy.

California holds the third-highest unemployment rate in the nation at 12.4 percent, but four of those cities are at the very top of that list.

Stockton is the worst of the cities in the survey with a 16.6 percent jobless rate, followed by Modesto at No. 2 with 16.2 percent, Fresno at No. 3 with 15.2 percent and Bakersfield at No. 4 with 15.1 percent.

Las Vegas is No. 5 with a 15 percent, but it is closely followed by Riverside at 14.8 percent.

Sacramento is 11th at 12.5 percent.

But it's not as if those cities closer to the Pacific are going great guns either. The highest-rated California city in the overall Market Watch survey is San Francisco—and in the No. 33 spot, it barely cracks the top third of the 102 cities included. ... All California cities in the survey are in the bottom fourth when it comes to unemployment rates. ...

Explosion of the Western Public Debt Bubble

The second half of 2011 will mark the point in time when all the world's financial operators will finally understand that the West will not repay in full a significant portion of the loans advanced over the last two decades. For leap/E2020 it is, in effect, around October 2011, due to the plunge of a large number of U.S. cities and states into an inextricable financial situation following the end of the federal funding of their deficits, while Europe will face a very significant debt refinancing requirement, that this explosive situation will be fully revealed.

Media escalation of the European crisis regarding sovereign debt of euroland's peripheral countries will have created the favorable context for such an explosion, of which the U.S. "Muni" market incidentally has just given a foretaste in November 2010 with a mini-crash that saw all the year's gains go up in smoke in a few days. This time this crash took place discreetly since the Anglo-Saxon media machine succeeded in focusing world attention on a further episode of the fantasy sitcom "The End of the Euro"

Yet the contemporaneous shocks in the United States and Europe make for a very disturbing set-up comparable, according to our team, to the "Bear Stearn" crash which preceded Lehman Brothers' bankruptcy and the collapse of Wall Street in September 2008 by eight months. But the [GlobalEurope Anticipation Bulletin] readers know very well that major crashes rarely make headlines in the media several months in advance

Citigroup Warns of Wave of Bank Failures

Prof. Willem Buiter, the bank's chief economist, said the eurozone was paralyzed by a "game of chicken" between the European Central Bank and euro governments.

Both sides are trying to shift responsibility on to the other for shoring up southern Europe and Ireland, raising the risk of contagion spreading. "The market is not going to wait until March for the EU authorities to get their act together. We could have several sovereign states and banks going under. They are being far too casual," he said.

Mark Schofield, Citigroup's global head of interest rate strategy, said Portugal would need an EU rescue soon and that it was "highly likely that Spain will go the same way." This risks overpowering the €440 billion ($578 billion) bailout fund.

“Restructuring of some sovereign debt is inevitable. There is a chance that Spain could still make it, but the debt trajectory looks unsustainable if a broader EU-wide solution isn’t found,” he said. The warnings came after Moody’s said it might downgrade Portugal’s A1 rating by one or two notches on growth worries, but said the country’s solvency was “not in question”

The Looming Crisis in the States

Published: December 25, 2010

For most of this year, the state of Illinois has lacked the money to pay its bills. Some of its employees have been evicted from their offices for nonpayment of rent, social service groups have laid off hundreds of workers while waiting for checks, pharmacies have closed for lack of Medicaid payments. Faced with $4.5 billion in overdue payments, Illinois has proposed a precarious plan to sell its delinquent bills to Wall Street investors in exchange for cash, calculating that the interest it must pay the investors will be less than the late fees it owes.

It is no way to run the nation’s fifth largest state, and it is not even clear that investors will agree, but these kinds of shaky deals are likely to become increasingly common as the states try to cope with the greatest fiscal drought since the Great Depression. Starved for revenue and accustomed to decades of overspending, many states have been overwhelmed. They are facing shortfalls of $140 billion next year. Even before the downturn, states jeopardized their futures by accumulating trillions in debt that they swept into some far-off future.

But that future is not so distant, and the crushing debt has made recovery far more difficult to achieve. As The Times reported, Illinois, California and several other states are at increasing risk of being the first states to default since the 1930s. The city of Prichard, Ala., has stopped sending out its pension checks, breaking state law and shocking its employees.

A state or city unable to make its bond payments would send harmful ripples through the financial system that could cause damage even to healthier governments. But if states act quickly to deal with their revenue losses and address their debt — and receive sufficient aid from Washington — there is still time to avoid a crisis.

The most immediate cause of the states’ problems is the decline in tax revenue caused by the downturn, just as the demand for services has increased.

Over the last two years, combined sales, personal and corporate taxes have fallen by more than 10 percent. Although revenue is likely to tick up slightly in 2011, federal stimulus money — which has been keeping many states afloat — is largely scheduled to expire. Renewing a portion of that aid would be one of the most effective ways to assist the economy.

Many conservatives have said the revenue decline is a good incentive for states to cut their spending. That is precisely what almost all states have done, because they are legally barred from running deficits. State spending fell by 3.8 percent in the 2009 fiscal year and 7.3 percent more in the 2010 fiscal year, the only significant declines since at least the 1970s, even as the cost of education and health care rose.

School aid, Medicaid, transportation, employee salaries, social services, courts — whatever there was to cut, states have slashed it, often at ruinous costs to the most vulnerable: the poor, the sick and disabled, students, tens of thousands of laid-off workers.

But cutting spending will not affect the heaviest burden: the accumulated debt that comes from passing off the biggest problems to future generations. States and cities have nearly $3 trillion in outstanding bonds, and more than $3.5 trillion in shortfalls to pensions. Promised health benefits alone are more than $500 billion.

Some states have tried to pretend their pension obligations do not exist. New York is shortchanging its pension funds, and Gov. Chris Christie of New Jersey, who claims to be so financially responsible, is the latest in a line of governors who have simply refused to pay the billions the state owes to its employee pensions. (Instead, it has often spent that money on tax cuts.) Public employee unions will need to give ground on pensions and other benefits, but it will be hard to start productive discussions if Mr. Christie and other governors refuse to acknowledge their obligations and bargain in good faith.

During the last year, 23 states raised taxes and fees, but only eight increased personal income taxes. Ultimately, states are going to have to acknowledge that more effective, targeted tax increases are inevitable, and can be achieved if they are structured properly. Governors also must explain to voters that they have cut spending. The nation's richest taxpayers just got a windfall in the federal tax deal extorted from President Obama by Republican senators. States should not shy away from asking for more help from those most able to pay.

Too many newly elected governors have vowed not to raise taxes — including, unfortunately, Andrew Cuomo of New York — fearing giving bad news to voters who have not yet been told how dire things really are. Dan Malloy, the incoming Democratic governor of Connecticut, is one of the few who have been honest with their constituents, saying neither cuts nor tax increases alone can deal with his state's $3.5 billion shortfall, one of the largest, proportionally, in the nation. "This is a time when people have to be on notice that they'll be requested to participate in shared sacrifice," he said recently.

Many governors claim tax increases are ill-advised during a recession, but more experienced economists say it is better to raise taxes on the rich than to lay off workers and cut spending, in effect offsetting Washington's attempts at stimulus. The federal government missed a chance to begin to act rationally about its long-term deficit by giving away the store to the rich in the tax deal. States should not make the same mistake.

Iran Recruiting Nuclear Scientists

Iran is operating a worldwide recruitment network for nuclear scientists to lure them to the country to work on its nuclear weapons program, officials have told the Daily Telegraph.

They claim that the country is particularly reliant on North Korean scientists but also recruits people with expertise from African countries to work on developing missiles and nuclear production activities.

North Korea relies on a lucrative financing agreement with Iran to fund its expanding nuclear activities. In return for Iranian money and testing facilities, North Korea sends technology and scientists.

Mohamed Reza Heydari, a former Iranian consul in Oslo, told the Daily Telegraph, that he had personally helped scores of North Koreans enter the country while working for the foreign ministry's office in Tehran's Imam Khomeini airport. ...

"The North Koreans were all technicians and military experts involved in two aspects of Iran's nuclear program. One to enable Iran to achieve nuclear bomb capability, and the other to help increase the range of Iran's ballistic missiles."

He said: "In all our embassies abroad, especially in the African countries, the staff of foreign ministry were always looking for local scientists and technicians who were experts in nuclear technology and offered them lucrative contracts to lure them into Iran. "The façade of the nuclear program is that it is for peaceful purposes, but behind it they have a completely different agenda."

After reading this article above what is next is of great interest. Especially as you consider what Isaiah said about Egypt being led away naked. You can find this prophecy in Isaiah 20: 3 And Yehovah said, "As My servant Yeshayahu has walked naked and barefoot three years for a sign and a wonder against Mitsrayim and Kush, 4 so does the sovereign of Ashshur lead away the captives of Mitsrayim and the exiles of Kush, young and old, naked and barefoot, with their buttocks uncovered – the shame of Mitsrayim. 5 "And they shall be afraid and ashamed of Kush, their expectation, and of Mitsrayim, their boast. 6 "And the inhabitant of this coastland shall say in that day, 'See, such is our expectation, wherever we flee for help to be delivered from the sovereign of Ashshur. And how do we escape?' "

This is talking about Assyria which is Germany coming down and taking Egypt prisoners. Why because Germany will be in league with Iran. Now read what wikileaks has revealed.

Mubarak: 'Iranian Influence Spreading Like a Cancer' Across Arab World

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak compared Iran's growing influence in the Middle East to a "cancer," according to a cable released by the anti-secrecy website WikiLeaks.

"President Mubarak has made it clear that he sees Iran as Egypt's—and the region's—primary strategic threat," says the secret cable, sent April 28, 2009, from the U.S. Embassy in Cairo. "His already dangerous neighborhood, he has stressed, has only become more so since the fall of Saddam, who, as nasty as he was, nevertheless stood as a wall against Iran, according to Mubarak.

He now sees Tehran's hand moving with ease throughout the region, 'from the Gulf to Morocco,' as he told a recent congressional delegation."

The cable notes, however, that "Mubarak's focus on the Iranian threat differs somewhat from ours." "While he will readily admit that the Iranian nuclear program is a strategic and existential threat to Egypt and the region, he sees that threat as relatively 'long term.' What has seized his immediate attention are Iran's non-nuclear destabilizing actions such as support for Hamas, media attacks, weapons and illicit funds smuggling, all of which add up in his mind to 'Iranian influence spreading like a cancer from the gcc [Gulf Cooperation Council countries] to Morocco.'"

The cable was sent days after Egyptian security services rolled up a cell of operatives from Hezbollah, Iran's Lebanese-based proxy, based in the Sinai.

After the arrests, according to the memo, "Egypt had sent a clear message to Iran that if they interfere in Egypt, Egypt will interfere in Iran, adding that egis had already begun recruiting agents in Iraq and Syria."

Knowledge of this threat was attributed to Egyptian intelligence chief Omar Suleiman.

At the time, the Obama administration's policy of engagement with the Iranians was getting under way, which frightened the Egyptians, according to the cable.

"They are worried that we are going to strike a 'grand deal' with the Iranians," it says. ... Egyptian Foreign Minister Ahmed Aboul Gheit, the cable says, "has speculated that the new U.S. administration will engage with Iran, but will be disappointed in late 2009 or early 2010 when it realizes that Iran will not stop its enrichment activities."

In the past I have shown you why Saudi Arabia is concerned about the Iranians who are strategically out manoeuvring many in the world. And now you have read how Egypt too is concerned about them. Prophecy shows us that Europe will come down and lead them away as captives. Watch as this grows closer to that time.

Queensland's floods have cost grain farmers an estimated $400 million and the bill will certainly rise, AgForce says.

Qld floods washes away crops

Friday, December 24, 2010 » 09:34am

About $800 million in profit from sugarcane crops has been washed away by bad weather along Australia's eastern seaboard this year, sugar producers say.

Hundreds evacuated, motorists stranded as downpours flood towns in northeastern Australia
By The Associated Press | The Canadian Press – Mon, 27 Dec 7:56 PM EST

The rain has also caused at least 400 million Australian dollars ($403 million) worth of damage to crops across the state, including sunflower and cotton, that were just recovering from months of drought, said Brent Finlay, president of farmers' lobby group AgForce.

"These crops were looking fantastic two months ago, and all that's been taken away from them," Finlay said. "It's just devastating. This was going to be the crop that got a lot of farmers back on their feet after the drought."

Floods cover vast area of Australia's northeast

Fri Dec 31, 2010 6:18am EST

SYDNEY (Reuters) – Floodwater rose across a vast area in Australia's northeast on Friday, inundating 22 towns, forcing 200,000 residents out of their homes, and closing a major sugar export port.

Flooding has already shut coal mines in Queensland state and its biggest coal export port, forcing miners such as Anglo American and Rio Tinto to slow or halt operations.

The worst flooding in about 50 years has been caused by a "La Nina" weather pattern, which cools waters in the eastern Pacific and has produced torrential rain over the past two weeks across northeast Australia.

In the southern states of Victoria and South Australia, meanwhile, soaring temperatures and tinder dry conditions have sparked bushfires.

Authorities warned of possible "catastrophic" fires if conditions worsened and holiday travelers were asked to prepare evacuation plans.

“We’re asking people to have a plan, how they’re going to get to where they’re going...a plan to get away...if a bushfire happens to threaten,” said South Australia rural fire chief Andrew Lawson.

Firefighters, helped by cooler temperatures, contained small fires late on Friday, but meteorologists said readings could soar again above 40 degrees Celsius (104 degrees Fahrenheit) in the next few days.

In Queensland, authorities warned of rising health risks from floodwaters, along with the danger of crocodiles and snakes in flooded homes.

“This disaster is a long way from over,” Queensland state Premier Anna Bligh told reporters. “We now have 22 towns or cities that are either substantially flooded or isolated. That represents some 200,000 people spanning an area that’s bigger than the size of France and Germany combined.”

Northen Ireland water shortage hits thousands of households

Scotland sends 160,000 litres of bottled water as GPs warn of public health emergency
29 December 2010

Up to 40,000 homes were today reported to be without water in Northern Ireland. A sudden thaw after arctic conditions has burst thousands of pipes and let reservoirs run dry.

Doctors are worried about the effect on public health. “This is becoming a really serious emergency,” said Dr John McMahon, a GP who had been without water in his home in Rostrevor for seven days. Peter Maguire, another County Down doctor, was of the same mind. “This really is now a public health emergency,” said the Newry GP. “We need water and we need it for the sake of public health. People with young families have not been able to flush toilets and wash themselves, never mind get access to drinking water.”

I have been speaking out for 5 years now warning you about the things prophesied to come. On the DVD I told you that disease would come from a lack of money to maintain the utility system. We are seeing a nation like Ireland which is stretched to the limit on the funding it has access to and now forced to make major cuts. You are seeing the results of those cuts. It will get worse for all of those countries whose debts have swollen beyond their ability to pay them back. Just like the many states of the USA and this is part of why I continue to show you these things from a financial point of view. Time to watch the DVD at https://sightedmoon.com/sightedmoon_2015/?page_id=251 and then to read The Prophecies of Abraham. Time to stop disobeying Yehovah and to begin to keep Torah, before it is all taken away from you.

I loved the next email as it shows me that people are thinking and trying to draw lines between the different things they understand. So please brethren keep thinking and keep studying.

Shalom,

I have just recently been led to you and I am in awe of the gifts that the Father has given to you. Bless YAH. As I have been reading your articles and listening on truth2u, I have a question concerning the cycles and Sabbatical years. This week is Shemot, and as I was reading it struck home that Moses and Yashua were to be killed by their respective kings. Can you tell me if they were in the same time or cycle? and what cycle it was in?

If I placed 120 circles on a piece of paper and divided them into 7 7s, with each having a Sabbatical circle, figured out when certain events occurred, would all of history past, present and future overlap? Correct me if I'm wrong, I believe this is what you are saying.

What is the next cycle correlation according to scripture on HIS calendar? Because as we know "There is nothing new under the sun."

Thank you for your time and for being a dedicated watchman on the wall.

Be blessed, Shabbat Shalom

I have last week and the one before and again this week been asking you to help us raise the money to buy our first farm in Israel and begin to get ready for the return of Ephraim. Especially after reading how bankrupt the individual states and cities are in the USA. But not everyone is in favour of this. One person wrote;

Having read "ship without a country" by Victor Thorn and Mark Glenn,,, and watched Anna Baltzer's DVD 'Life in Palestine',,, I think I will wait for some indication that the land is Torah observant and worshipping YHVH before I will seriously consider moving there. Meanwhile I continue to work to set up a viable situation here, on the land YHVH has given me. You are certainly right, that hard times are coming (one way or the other, and likely both). Our only hope is in the blessing of YAHUSHUA, both individually, and as a nation. At this time I see no nation that is aligning itself to be in YHVH's care, and we are assured that there will be few that find righteousness, and Salvation, which is YAHUSHUA. Thus it would seem that likely there is NO nation that will get a pass when the water's get rough

Another wrote;

I love all your research and print out every weekly teaching to read and study during the Sabbath. I'm an old WCG'er also who continually seeks Yehovah's every new eye opening detail as He reveals it to his children.

There are also brethren who think that if they flee to South America or Central America that they will escape all these things that are about to come. And there are still others who believe they can survive in the bush. Let me say that this is absurd and that the Bible says you are to go to Israel. And once it is surrounded you flee to Jordan; nothing in here about South or Central America or fleeing to the bush in whatever area you live in. Brethren do not put your own logic into what the scriptures tells us to do. You must read this week's Mitzvah number 293. We are trying to prepare to be at a city of refuge as we are told to do in Numbers. This is not the bush or high country out back nor is it a remote place in Central or South America.

Study your Torah, it is to a refuge city. There are three in Israel and three on the other side of the Jordan. Do you know the names of them?

We have received many letters asking for more information about the Farm in Israel, Like the next ones.

Shalom AH, I would like to hear more about, the farm of safety, where is the farm land how big is the farm that we must have, if its Land for the 12-tribes of Israel that's means we are talking a lot of Land and went will this take place, I know the book of Joel says call the people together bring everyone Joel ch 2vs 1,15 you say this is right now that the trumpet is being Blowing as we talk, See I always through that the two wittiness will be doing this calling, Rev, ch 11 also will bring 7 bowls of judgment to the world, Is this right or wrong. Shalom Bill

Although many have asked about the farm and who is doing this and where we are doing this I must tell you once again I am not going to share that information. I have announced things on this News Letter only to find out thereafter that I had been attacked or had events cancelled by other Messianic leaders. I also have news from Israel of Messianic Brethren being attack and harassed by Orthodox Jews. I am not going to endanger those who are willing to work with me on this project.

I am also sending out periodical updates to only those who have donated and continue to donate to help us raise the money to purchase the farm. Unless you contribute you will not hear the details that I can share. There are no free rides here. It is time you all became very serious about what is about to happen and begin to take the steps to prepare for it.

I also received a number of emails like the following one.

I am writing this to you as I do to all that I contact. my whole desire is to be in Israel NOW. I have a dream and desire that cannot be quenched. it burns with a passion deep inside. my desire, oddly enough, is to go and build a "Sanctuary", a safe place that people can come and learn, seed refuge, work, help, be a people whose heart is in and for Y'shua. I desire to do this in Israel. as I read this newsletter that you put out, which I love your work and want to thank you for who you are and for what you do, I am in somber heart because I have no money to lend to you. I am a servant who so desires to work with you on this if you will see fit to place me. like I stated, I have no money but I do have two hands, strong back, and a willingness to go forward and help. I seek no money or payment in this help, just a place to participate. please let me know if this can be done with your heart and idea's. thank you my friend thanks bud and I look forward to hearing from you.

In 2 Samuel 24 we read how David would not accept a free gift from his servant Araunah, but instead said that it had to cost him something. 22 And Arawnah said to Dawid?, "Let my master the sovereign take and offer that which seems good to him. Here are cattle for burnt offering, and threshing implements and the yokes of the cattle for wood. 23 "All these, O sovereign, Arawnah has given to the sovereign." And Arawnah said to the sovereign, "Yehovah your Elohim accept you!" 24 And the sovereign said to Arawnah, "No, let me buy it from you for a price, for certain. I am not offering burnt offerings to Yehovah my Elohim without cost.” So Dawid? bought the threshing-floor and the cattle for fifty shekels of silver. 25 And Dawid? built an altar to Yehovah there, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. And Yehovah answered the prayers for the land, and the plague was withdrawn from Yisra’el.

Brethren if you can’t find $20 or $30 or $50 dollars to send then how on earth do you expect to fly over to Israel and buy food and travel and pay for your accommodations? Can you give up coffee for one week? Or fast for one day or two and take the money that you would have spent on food and send it in. If it does not cost you anything then it is not worth that much to you.

You obviously do not value what the Land of Israel is. It is your homeland. What is it worth to you? $5, $1000, or $100,000, just what is it worth to you? Mathew 13 tells us something to consider in this regards. 44 “Again, the reign of the heavens is like treasure hidden in a field, which a man having found it, hid, and for joy over it he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field. 45 “Again, the reign of the heavens is like a man, a merchant, seeking fine pearls, 46 who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had and bought it.

Many of those who have contributed have been the widows. And in Mathew we have read how even the widow’s mite was of more value than the rest of those giving; because it cost her more.

www.sightedmoon.com has been showing you through the DVD of the Sabbatical and Jubilee cycles and through the book The Prophecies of Abraham that in 7 years’ time North America will be at war. Are you going to wait until the war is here before you get ready to see if what I am saying is true? Or are you going to act now? Are you going to act on your own or are you going to go with a larger group? Have those things I have been saying since 2005 not come true so far and is this not enough?

In Exodus 35 Moses asked the people to make an offering for the building of the Tabernacle, and the people brought according to the gifts they had been given.

And in Exodus 36 we read of how much the people had brought 3 And they received from Mosheh all the contribution which the children of Yisra’el had brought for the work of the service of making the set-apart place. But they still brought to him voluntary offerings every morning, 4 so all the craftsmen who were doing all the work of the set-apart place came, each from the work he was doing, 5 and they spoke to Mosheh, saying, “The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work which Yehovah commanded us to do.” 6 Then Mosheh commanded and they sent this word throughout the camp, saying, “Let neither man nor woman do any more work for the contribution of the set-apart place.” And the people were withheld from bringing, 7 for what they had was enough for all the work to be done, more than enough.

It would be absolutely awesome to write to you and tell you to stop giving as we have more than enough to buy the farms and make the repairs and purchase of the seeds and animals to get this started. What a gift of faith that would be to those who took part in it. May Yehovah stir your hearts to help.

The prices of the farms we have looked at to date range in price from 650,000 to 1.5 Million and they have orchards of Olives and Almonds on them. We need your help no matter how small.

This week I said goodbye to a relative who will be serving NATO in Sudan. I have been trying to update him on the religious aspects to what is happening in the world and where Sudan fits in all of this. I also showed him this article you are about to read.

Here is a group of people who are going to Israel and many of them are being killed and robbed and tortured along the way. They are willing to give all they have in order to get there. Read this link and compare what they are doing to what you are doing. It is not worth anything if it does not cost you anything. To these Sudanese it has cost them everything they have and then some.

Brethren you can send your donations made out to Joseph F Dumond 14 Willow Cres. Orangeville Ontario Canada L9V 1A5. Or you can go to the donate button on the web site and make a donation. If you do not trust me then do not send any funds. But those of you who have read this News Letter for the past 5 years should know me by now. Please include your email address when you write.

The people in Israel will tell us of the land they have found for sale or lease. If the funds are here then we will go ahead. I am not going to tell you where or who I am dealing with. I am sorry, but I am not going to endanger the brethren. Many of you ask who and where and have not asked how you can help. Help us to make this happen, let your faith lead you. But you must understand that those things I have shared before having been sabotaged by some who read this Newsletter and I am not about to let this happen again.

On top of all of this I have an opportunity to do a two hour radio program each week and to even have it grow into something much bigger. Currently there is no way I could afford to do this. And on top of that the amount of time it would take would be a full time job for me. I am asking you to pray with me about this on top of the farm and the newsletter to let Yehovah's will be done.

A friend has uploaded the DVD so that you can now watch it in a full length viewing. If you have not yet watched the Sabbatical and Jubilee years then go now to this site and watch it with your whole family.

I uploaded your Jubilees DVD video to my Yah-Tube website, so people can stream the whole video at once, rather than only 10 minutes chunks on YouTube.

People can also download the video in several different formats. (i.e. wmv, mov, avi, etc...)

I hope that helps. Have a great day!

So many Christians think they have a job to do by getting people saved or getting people born again or converting the Jews to Jesus, and yet it is all of these Christians that need to be converted to the truth. This may be shocking to some of you, but yet I do not worry one iota about the Jews, they already have the Torah and they know it better than most of you that are called Christian. And the one thing that prevents them from knowing more about the Messiah is all these hypocritical Missionary types who have done away with the law and have not one clue about what the Messiah actually did teach. He taught the torah, the exact same thing the Jews now read and study. The exact same thing most Christians have no clue about and refuse to learn and will not read.

This does not mean I agree with everything that Judah teaches, but it does show you, the Christian, just how far from the truth you have strayed.

In recent months I have pointed out many false teachings that some of you are incorporating into your new found Messianic religious practices. Things like those practiced at Purim and Chanukah, Halloween, and Lighting of candles and most recently about Christmas. Yes some people still keep Christmas and Dec 25 as the birth of Yahshua. They blindly keep the old false traditions and do not check or prove anything at all. They are dumber than dumb sheep.

All you have to do is go to https://sightedmoon.com/sightedmoon_2015/?page_id=619 to read the News Letter from this year of 5846, or you can go to https://sightedmoon.com/sightedmoon_2015/?page_id=483 to read the News Letters from 5845 or if you like you can go and browse the News Letter's at https://sightedmoon.com/sightedmoon_2015/?page_id=219 for the year 5844 and finally you can go to https://sightedmoon.com/sightedmoon_2015/?page_id=144 to read those News letters from 5843. Each year I explain these false teaching that many of you still hang on to for dear life. You still drag all that false baggage with you and refuse to let it go.

And in case you are wondering why I am saying this year is 5846 and the Jews say it is 5771 please go to and read the Missing 76 years which I wrote about in 5843. Don't forget Judah starts their year at the Seventh month so it is 76 and one half years difference.

With each News Letter comes a bunch of emails condemning me for pointing out such things. People do not want to know the truth and they most certainly do not want to change. The fact that so many of you do and are changing is a miracle in and of itself. As Joel says in 2:27 "And you shall know that I am in the midst of Yisra'el, and that I am Yehovah your Elohim and there is no one else. And My people shall never be put to shame. Footnote: 1See Isa. 24:23. 28 "And after this it shall be that I pour out My Spirit on all flesh. And your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men dream dreams, your young men see visions. 29 "And also on the male servants and on the female servants I shall pour out My Spirit in those days. 30 "And I shall give signs in the heavens and upon the earth: blood and fire and columns of smoke, 31 the sun is turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the coming of the great and awesome day of Yehovah. 32 "And it shall be that everyone who calls on the Name of Yehovah shall be delivered¹. For on Mount Tsiyon and in Yerushalayim there shall be an escape² as Yehovah has said, and among the survivors whom Yehovah calls. Footnotes:

¹Acts 2:21, Rom. 10:13. ²Isa.

4:2-3, Obad. v. 17, Rev. 14:1.

Did you watch the Blood moon last Monday evening Dec 21? This is what Joel is referring to only they will come in 2014 and 2015 on the High Days of Passover and Sukkot each year, as a warning of the sword that will then be at the door. The blood moon is a warning of war that is to come.
