Shabbat Shalom To the Royal Family,

We have now shared with you the meaning of each of the Fall Holy Days. At the end of Sabbath today is the start of the Day of Atonement. Yehovah is very specific about this day and wants to make sure you understand when to keep it and not to eat or drink on it or you will be cut off.

Lev 23:26-32 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: “Also the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement. It shall be a holy convocation for you; you shall afflict your souls, and offer an offering made by fire to the Lord. And you shall do no work on that same day, for it is the Day of Atonement, to make atonement for you before the Lord your God. For any person who is not afflicted in soul on that same day shall be cut off from his people. And any person who does any work on that same day, that person I will destroy from among his people. You shall do no manner of work; it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. It shall be to you a sabbath of solemn rest, and you shall afflict your souls; on the ninth day of the month at evening, from evening to evening, you shall celebrate your sabbath.”

So from Sunset at the end of Sabbath until Sunset on the 1st day Sunday, you are not to eat, or drink and you are to humble yourself and repent. It is on this day that Satan will be locked away in the very near future. This is a very big deal and you need to be mindful of it.

Take a look at what happened to Nineveh and pay attention to the fasting they did.

Jonah 3:1-10 Now the word of the Lord came to Jonah the second time, saying, “Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and preach to it the message that I tell you.” So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh, according to the word of the Lord. Now Nineveh was an exceedingly great city, a three-day journey in extent. And Jonah began to enter the city on the first day’s walk. Then he cried out and said, “Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown!”

The People of Nineveh Believe

So the people of Nineveh believed God, proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest to the least of them. Then word came to the king of Nineveh; and he arose from his throne and laid aside his robe, covered himself with sackcloth and sat in ashes. And he caused it to be proclaimed and published throughout Nineveh by the decree of the king and his nobles, saying, Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste anything; do not let them eat, or drink water. But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily to God; yes, let everyone turn from his evil way and from the violence that is in his hands. Who can tell if God will turn and relent, and turn away from His fierce anger, so that we may not perish?

Then God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God relented from the disaster that He had said He would bring upon them, and He did not do it.

I am pausing now and pondering what I have just added to this article about Jonah. I had not planned to add this scripture and now that I have read it a second time, I am inspired for two reasons at what I am about to share with you. Wow!

On the Feast of Trumpets, I had the pleasure of attending with a group of about 40 people who had gathered to keep this Feast in someone’s basement, at the proper time according to the sighting of the moon, the night before. They were singing, and the many little ones were dancing, and it was very nice.

We were being taught about the meaning of the Day of Trumpets. They concluded no one knows the meaning of this day. One lady offered up a meaning. She has been an ardent reader of this News Letter. She then connected this day of trumpets with the Sabbatical years and when the Messiah would come on this day.

Even though this same group had quoted many times the scripture that Yehshua said "No man can know the day or the hour" in reference to the Feast of Trumpets and the sighted moon, they then would return to their Christian thinking saying no one could know when the Messiah comes. In other words, because we have studied the Sabbatical and Jubilee cycles, and they even noted that I had done a great deal of research on this subject, that because the Sabbatical and Jubilee cycles showed us a date when the Messiah would come we must be wrong because No man can know. And yet they had just said that this scripture has to do with the Feast of Trumpets.

Many people said this over and over in various ways. They even began to quote Sabbatical year scriptures without understanding what they were doing. A great day had become depressing because they would not get out from the Christian false teaching that was ingrained into their mindset. They would not repent and said that those who set dates were false teachers. Although I had said very little many would condemn or belittle what we teach without understanding it. I never set the dates. I just showed the Jubilee cycles and it sets the dates. So they refuse to even consider this. And they remain in ignorance of the great meaning of the Feast of Trumpets and misunderstanding Shavuot having combined the two which is what Christians do.

"We have learned enough," they say, and we are not going to go any further. We are not going to go too far from our Christian heritage. How very sad to see this displayed.

No matter how much you sing or how loud you sing it; no matter how often you pray or how sincere you pray; no matter if you are Christian or Hebrew Roots or Jewish or Messianic, if you do not obey the commandments, then Yehovah is not going to reveal His truths to you. There is a reason Yehovah killed 6 Million Jews during the Holocaust. They did not keep the Holy Days or the Sabbatical or Jubilee years, at the proper time. Your refusal to keep the Sabbatical years at the proper time prevents you from learning about the prophecies and teachings they reveal.

Yet Nineveh, a gentile nation repented and was spared the disasters that Yehovah was about to send upon them. While many teach on the Feast of Trumpets about Mathew 24, they have no clue about end time events and dismiss those who are willing to share what they have come to know by obeying the Sabbatical year laws.

Many Christians were watching the Sept 23 rapture that never happened and many other Christians are laughing at them and all who attempt to be watchmen. Many Messianics are just Christians keeping the Sabbath. Is that whom we are supposed to be? Just Christians who keep the Sabbath and Holy Days mocking those who watch and study the end time prophecies. Does this describe you?

Like Jonah, we did not want to do this job of warning you of what is about to come. We just wanted to know about the Sabbatical and Jubilee years and when they are. But once we understood them and could prove them and have since then found many more proofs that back up what we have already proven, then Yehovah showed us how Daniel 9 was not about 70 weeks but was about 70 Feast of Weeks or 70 X 49. And in the 70th week in the middle of that week Israel, all 12 tribes would be cut off and be as if they never were.

You can laugh at me all you want. You can laugh and make fun of others who now shout out this warning as well. You can lump us in with all those false Christians teachers who will not keep the Torah and yet want to prophesy about the end times. I really do not care what you think. Ezekiel 33, and this group even talked about Ezekiel 33 but then dismissed those things I say. But Ezekiel 33 commands us to warn the brethren when we see the sword coming. I see that sword as plain as the nose on your face and so I must warn you.

But Ezekiel 33 also says that if they the brethren do not heed the warning then their own blood is upon them and I am clear of having their blood on my hands.

No one was talking about the Sabbatical and Jubilee years nor knew when they were. When I showed the leaders they dismissed it as irrelevant. So I kept talking about it because no one else would. I never set out or sought to do this job nor do I now do it for my own vanity. Nineveh repented when they heard they were sinning. Will the Hebrew roots or Messianics repent now or will they too be swept away when this sword comes in the middle of this 70th Jubilee cycle? Nineveh received the atonement from Yehovah once they repented. How many of you will truly repent this Atonement? How many are truly sorry for not obeying Yehovah and for chasing after Satan's ways?

There is about to be a great purging and men will become as rare as the gold of Orpher. You need to fast this Atonement and mean it!

I see the reports from the Philippines and how whole groups of people are repenting and now obeying Yehovah. Hundreds and hundreds. I saw over 1000 people come out on the Sabbath to learn how they were under the curse and how they could now begin to get out from under it and be blessed by obeying Yehovah. I spoke at Sunday Churches while I was there and one of them has now begun to keep the Sabbath. Both Burundi and the Philippines have not been as blessed as North America has. Yet they are willing to repent and begin to obey Yehovah when taught.

But here in North America where you have electricity and running water and stores full of food, and houses and a place to sleep, for the most part, you do not care about God and are actively seeking to remove anything that mentions God or even those who speak of Him, out of your lives.

The Breaker that Breaks in Pieces

With the German Elections over Sept 24 and now that Angela Merkel has won a fourth term, and knowing how short the attention span is of many of you, I felt it incumbent upon me to once again go over exactly who Germany is. This is the second connection to the Jonah prophecy. Nineveh.

Before we begin this study which is copied from our teaching on Assyria, I want to share with you what just happened in Germany in case many of you are unaware. The front-page news items like Hurricanes Harvey, Irma, and Maria and the two Earthquakes in Mexico, and the ongoing devastation of Puerto Rico and the other islands in the Caribbean now being reported may have caused you to miss this historic event that is now unfolding.

Here is what the Trumpet Brief summarized of this momentous election.

Germany's election was not so boring after all. Germany's bestselling newspaper, Bild, called it a "political earthquake." Deutsche Welle and Spiegel Online called it "a historic turning point" and "an attack on our liberal democracy."

What was so earthshaking about Sunday's German federal election?

The Alternative für Deutschland (AfD) entered parliament as the third-largest party in government. This is the first time since World War II that the AfD or any far-right party has entered parliament.

Angela Merkel's Christian Democratic Union (CDU) suffered its worst result since 1949. The Social Democrats (SPD) suffered their worst defeat in postwar history.

What does this mean for Germany and Europe? The effects of this political quake will hit nations around the world. Here's why.

The Rise of the AfD

Germany now has a right-wing fringe party in its parliament for the first time since the Nazis were in power under Adolf Hitler during World War II.

The party is hard to categorize. Some of its leaders are similar to conservative commentators in Britain and America—commentators we quote often at theTrumpet.com because they have a clear view of the dangers of radical Islam and mass migration. But other members of the AfD are extreme and

The AfD won 12.6 percent of the vote, according to the latest projections. In some regions of Germany, it won a much higher percentage: Among men in former East Germany, the AfD was the most popular party.

Winning 88 seats (at last count) in parliament is not only a symbolic victory, but also a very real and practical victory. AfD extremists will now be walking Germany's greatest halls of power. Men like Andreas Gauland, who believes that Germans should be "proud of the achievements of the German soldiers in two world wars," will appear much more often on German television screens.

"In a nutshell: Things are about to get a lot nastier," wrote Deutsche Welle, warning: "What the AfD will have is a soapbox beyond the considerable speaking time the party will enjoy in the next Bundestag. Political talk shows and other institutions of German political culture will now have no choice but to give spokespeople for the far-right party a platform. That will make the tone of German politics far less measured, far more coarse and cutting, than it is now."

“It remains to be seen how Merkel, who is known for being absolutely unflappable, will fare in a new daggers-out environment.”

Other parties will still shun the AfD, so it will not be able to pass any laws. The party also seems on the brink of a split. AfD chairwoman Frauke Petry just announced that she will not join the AfD’s parliamentary group—all but quitting the party. She disagrees with the party’s more extreme members.

The AfD’s newly elected legislators cannot come close to transforming Germany. But they can claim to speak for millions of Germans, because they do. This is going to bring the sharpest change in tone of German politics perhaps since the end of the war. And it will have a major effect on Germany’s biggest political parties, which have just sustained heavy losses.

Angela Merkel’s ‘Victory’

German Chancellor Angela Merkel won the election and will enter her fourth four-year term as Germany’s federal chancellor. German chancellors are not directly elected by voters; they are appointed by the parties that win the largest number of seats in parliament. According to the latest results, Merkel’s center-right Christian Democratic Union won 33 percent of the vote. But this is barely a victory: It marks her party’s worst performance since 1949, and a major drop from the 41.5 percent she won in the previous election. “It’s the kind of setback that in normal times would be a reason for the chancellor to consider resignation,” wrote Deutsche Welle. “But these circumstances are not normal times for Germany.”

It seems that the only reason Merkel can remain chancellor after such a poor election performance is that her main opposition, the leftist SPD, did even worse. Germans are abandoning mainstream parties for ones both further to the left and to the right.

Angela Merkel’s authority is weakened. She has held Germany’s highest office since 2005, and the search for her replacement has already begun. But now it takes on new urgency. “Merkel’s will be a long aufwiedersehen, but there’s no denying her grip on power began to loosen the moment the first returns rolled in,” wrote Politico. “Yes, she won, but support for her party fell by more than 20 percent compared to 2013, despite low unemployment, a strong economy and a host of other positives that by all rights should have guaranteed the Christian Democrats an easy win. Not even Finance Minister Wolfgang Schäuble’s balanced budget was enough for voters to forgive Merkel for her handling of the refugee crisis.”

Worse, for Ms. Merkel, she owns this defeat. Her signature style of politics is to blame. Throughout her whole tenure as chancellor, she has moved her party to the left, borrowing policies from the SPD and even the Green party. If it wasn’t for that, the AfD may not exist—certainly not as the electoral force it is today. Her party will now be forced to go against her entire style of politics. It can’t be long before it rejects her too.

Chancellor Merkel will find it harder to govern during her fourth term. But before she even gets there, she has to put together a coalition.

Unstable Government

Joining a coalition with Angela Merkel has proved to be the surest way to kill your political party. The Social Democrats are blaming their time as Chancellor Merkel's coalition partner for their historic defeat. The Free Democrats (FDP) also partnered with her in an earlier coalition. The following election they performed so badly that they lost all their seats in parliament.

So no one is queuing up to work with her this time around. The Social Democrats have already ruled it out. If they don't change their mind, that leaves only one viable alternative: the "Jamaica" coalition.

This would be a coalition between Merkel's CDU, the pro-business FDP and the environmentalist Green party. The colors of the three parties match the Jamaican flag, hence the name.

It's a recipe for instability. Germany has not been ruled by a three-party coalition since the 1950s. And both parties will have tough conditions. Most Green voters don't even want to be in a coalition with Merkel—they told pollsters they'd rather stay in opposition. And both the FDP and the Greens know Ms. Merkel's history of devouring her coalition partners. She will force them to compromise with the promises that got them elected, and their constituents will then punish them at the ballot box.

But such a coalition cannot work without compromise. How else can the pro-business Free Democrats, who generally oppose government regulation, and the leftist Greens, who support increased government regulation, exist in the same coalition?

"Merkel is about to begin a far less stable administration than in her past three terms," wrote Deutsche Welle. Even if she's able to get a coalition together relatively quickly, there's no guarantee how long it will last or how effectively it will govern.

Ms. Merkel "will have to muster all her powers of diplomacy to keep a fractious multiparty coalition in line, whilst facing sniping from a euroskeptic right-wing populist faction in parliament, as well as jockeying within her party by those vying to replace her," summarized EU Observer. "All of that at a time when Germany faces many challenges both in Europe and on the global stage."

A Shift to the Right

The election may have been historically bad for the mainstream Christian Democratic Union and Christian Social Union, but it also points a clear path back to victory: If you want votes, shift to the right.

If the CDU and CSU can regain the votes they just lost to the AfD, they will be in an excellent position to win the next election. The party's shift to the center under Angela Merkel is over.

The CDU will now "shift to the right," said Guntram Wolff from the Bruegel think tank. "Conservatives in Merkel's bloc—especially the Bavarians—are already whispering, 'I told you so,'" wrote Politico. "Look for that to continue and for the chancellor to inch to the right on migration and questions related to 'German identity.'"

As the CDU/CSU searches for a replacement for Merkel, they won't be looking for another centrist. They'll focus on the right wing.

As the Trumpet.com managing editor wrote last week, former defense minister Karl-Theodor zu Guttenberg is the perfect man for the job: "This man could be the ideal antidote to the rise of the AfD. Guttenberg has a lot to say about the migrant crisis, about Islam and about Germany's Christian heritage. He too believes some migrants need to be tossed out, and he believes Islam's presence needs to be curtailed. He also believes that Germans need to 'stand up for their culture.' His speeches nearly always have a distinct nationalist tone.

"Yet while Guttenberg communicates intelligently, forcefully and patriotically about these issues, he isn't too extreme. He doesn't make overtly racist remarks. He's not unreasonable, and he doesn't condone extreme solutions. He doesn't look or sound like a Nazi.

"For Germans who are anxious and frustrated, yet who don't want to go so far as to vote for the AfD—or for AfD supporters uncomfortable with the extreme views of the party—Karl-Theodor zu Guttenberg is an attractive alternative."

People are talking this way already! As Martin Rupps wrote at the website of Südwestrundfunk, a prominent regional public broadcasting corporation, "I guess that Angela Merkel appoints Karl Theodor Baron zu Guttenberg as successor."

There is still much to watch in German politics. What will the coalition look like? Who will get what job? Can the coalition effectively lead Germany in this increasingly dangerous world?

As we bring you the answers to these questions in the weeks and months ahead, we'll be basing our analysis on the same source we've always based it. The source that allowed us to warn about the rise of the far right in the early '90s—long before a far-right party entered parliament. The same source that led us to watch Guttenberg nearly a decade ago. The same source that has warned you to watch for political instability in Germany—and for what will spring from this instability. That source is Bible prophecy.

The Bible prophesies that Germany is going to take a radical new direction. A soon-coming political leader will have everything to do with that!

The truth is that soon there will be a German leader who will radically impact every individual on Earth.

That is why we focus so much on German politics. It's why we've been repeatedly urging you to order our free booklet A Strong German Leader Is Imminent.

You need to understand what is happening in Germany. But there is something more important, more fundamental, that will impact you even more. You need to understand the prophecy behind what is going on in Germany.

“Bible prophecy is being fulfilled so quickly,” wrote Trumpet editor in chief Gerald Flurry in a co-worker letter over the summer. “There is hope in that because fulfilled Bible prophecy is proof that God exists—and proof of THE RELIABILITY OF GOD’S WORD!”

Read our free booklet A Strong German Leader Is Imminent. Then, as you watch the major changes in German politics, you’ll see Bible prophecy proved before your eyes, and you’ll have hope for the future, knowing God is behind it.

Best regards,

commentator Martin Rupps, who predicted that Angela Merkel would appoint Karl-Theodor zu Guttenberg as her successor. Considering what Daniel 8 says about the prophesied strongman to emerge out of Germany, that he comes in peaceably “and obtains the kingdom by flatteries,” Mr. Rupps may be on to something.

Take Guttenberg’s impeccable Frankish-Bavarian Roman Catholic connections into mind and add them to the thread of political thought that has pervaded Bavarian politics for decades under Strauss and Stoiber—the dream of a united Catholic Europe under German leadership. Then add to it something that neither Strauss nor Stoiber ever possessed—a striking family title that cements all of these connections together—and we have a MAN TO WATCH in the shaky coalition of Chancellor Merkel’s government.

What is that family title?

‘Baron of the Holy Roman Empire’

The current Baron Karl-Theodor zu Guttenberg’s official title was granted to his forebears during the 18th century. HIS CORRECT TITLE IS REICHSFREIHERR, THE ENGLISH TRANSLATION BEING, “BARON OF THE HOLY ROMAN EMPIRE.”

A fascinating title when you consider what is happening in Europe!

To understand the end of days you must understand the start in Genesis. Everything you want to know about end times is found right there in the beginning.

I want to start by sharing this section in Daniel 11:35-39

And some of those of understanding shall fall, to refine them, purify them, and make them white, until the time of the end; because it is still for the appointed time.

“Then the king shall do according to his own will: he shall exalt and magnify himself above every god, shall speak blasphemies against the God of gods, and shall prosper till the wrath has been accomplished; for what has been determined shall be done. He shall regard neither the God of his fathers nor the desire of women, nor regard any god; for he shall exalt himself above them all. But in their place he shall honor a god of fortresses; and a god which his fathers did not know he shall honor with gold and silver, with precious stones and pleasant things. Thus he shall act against the strongest fortresses with a foreign god, which he shall acknowledge, and advance its glory; and he shall cause them to rule over many, and divide the land for gain.

Where it says “He shall regard neither the God of his fathers nor the desire of women” I have to wonder if Angela Merkel is the one whom it is speaking of. Just a suggestion.

This Scripture is also speaking of the time of the end when those with understanding will be killed. Also, note the time of the end is for an APPOINTED TIME. A Feast day is being spoken of here. Do you know which one it is?

Also, note the following section, “shall prosper till the wrath has been accomplished”.

The 7 Years of Plenty as shown to us in the Jubilee cycle when Joseph told of the 7 years of plenty and the 7 years of famine. These 7 years of plenty are for the Egyptians. Today the Egyptian Kingdom of Josephs day is known as end time Babylon. This end-time Babylon today is known as The United Nations, The EU, and Germany.

The 7 years of Plenty in Joseph’s time began in the year 1607 BC and went to the year 1601 BC. This is the section in green in the chart below Then the 7 years of famine began in the year 1600 BC and they concluded in the year 1594 BC. This is the section in red. The year 1599 is the year when Joseph revealed himself to his brothers.

-1583	-1590	-1597	-1604	-1611	-1618	-1625
-1584	-1591	-1598	-1605	-1612	-1619	-1626

-1589	-1596	-1603	-1610	-1617	-1624	-1631

When we compare these 7 years of plenty and 7 years of famine to our own Jubilee cycle today you will notice that the 7 years of plenty for the EU and Germany begin in the year 2020 and go to the year 2026. The 7 years of famine then begin in the year 2027 and go to the year 2033.

The year 2033 is the last year of the Great Tribulation when Satan is locked away at Atonement in 2033. The 7 years of famine begin when the two witnesses cause it not to rain anywhere on earth for 3 1/2 years starting in the year 2026. The half-year later takes you to Passover 2027.

The years of Plenty for Germany and the EU and the UN begin in 2020. Again we have explained this in our article afflicting your soul. 2028 in our Jubilee cycle matches with the year 1599 BC when Joseph revealed himself to his brothers. It is my position that Judah and Ephraim will not get back together until the year 2028 as they are led out of captivity by the two witnesses.

To get the whole story about what I have just stated with little explanation I urge you to get the two books Remembering the Sabbatical year of 2016 and The 2300 Days of Hell and read them

Assyria

Assyria

The Bible talks of them destroying Israel in the Last Days

Where Did they go?

Who Are they Today?

Noah gave birth to Shem

Shem gave birth to Asshur—Arpachshad

Arpachshad gave birth to Salah who gave birth to Eber.

Eber Is where we get the name Hebrews from who is the ancestor of Abraham

Sargon, we are not sure how he descended from Asshur but was the first Emperor to all the other kings. Asshur is said to be the first born of twins with Arpachshad and yet the blessing went to Arpachshad and not Asshur who felt he was more deserving.

This is the Assyrian Empire and it was the world ruling empire before Daniels prophecy of the four Beast Empires.

The Ancient Assyrians were the same people as the Ancient Akkadians.

The god of the Assyrians was Asshur. Asshur is also known as Athur or Atir. Atir was later known as Tir or Tyr.

Eze 28:1 The Word of Jehovah came again to me, saying, 2 Son of man, say to the ruler of Tyre. So says the Lord Jehovah: Because your heart is lifted up, and you have said, I am a god, I sit in the seat of God, in the midst of the seas; yet you are a man and not God, though you set your heart as the heart of gods; 3 Behold, you are wiser than Daniel; all secret things are not hidden from you!

We will come back to this later. So when we are talking about the King of Tyre we are in fact talking about the King of Assyria. Many have supposed this to be the city of Tyre, which it can be, but I see this as the being addressed to the King of Assyria.

So when we are talking about the King of Tyre we are in fact talking about the King of Assyria. Many have supposed this to be the city of Tyre, which it can be, but I see this as the being addressed to the King of Assyria.

Athur also became known as The god Thor

THOR

HAMMER OF THE GODS

In Norse mythology, Thor is a hammer-wielding god associated with thunder, lightning, storms, oak trees, strength, the protection of mankind, and also hallowing, healing and fertility. The deity in wider Germanic mythology and paganism was known in Old English as Þunor and in Old High German as Donar, stemming from a Common Germanic *Þunraz (meaning “thunder”).

Thor is a prominently mentioned god throughout the recorded history of the Germanic peoples

Where do we get this god Thor from? From your bible!

Yes, I have just shown you how it developed in Assyrian mythology. But there is much more, and it comes from your bible.

Everything you need to know is found in the first book of the bible. Including the end of times.

Kush the father of Nimrod was also called Mercury. From Hislop's Two Babylons;

Here there is a manifest enigma. How could Mercury or Hermes have any need to interpret the speeches of mankind when they “all spake one language”? To find out the meaning of this, we must go to the language of the Mysteries. Peresh, in Chalder, signifies “to interpret”; but was pronounced by old Egyptians and by Greeks, and often by the Chaldees themselves, in the same way as “Peres,” to “divide.” Mercury, then, or Hermes, or Cush, “the son of Ham,” was the “DIVIDER of the speeches of men.” He, it would seem, had been the ringleader in the scheme for building the great city and tower of Babel; and, as the well-known title of Hermes,—“the interpreter of the gods,” would indicate, had encouraged them, in the name of God, to proceed in their presumptuous enterprise, and so had caused the language of men to be divided, and themselves to be scattered abroad on the face of the earth.

As we go through this history of the gods keep an eye on the club.

Peresh- to interpret

Peres- to divide

Cush-The Divider of the Speeches of Men

Keep Your Eyes on the Club

Now, look at the name of Belus or Bel, given to the father of Ninus, or Nimrod, in connection with this. While the Greek name Belus represented both the Baal and Bel of the Chaldees, these were nevertheless two entirely distinct titles. These titles were both alike often given to the same god, but they had totally different meanings. Baal, as we have already seen, signified "The Lord"; but Bel signified "The Confounder." When, then, we read that Belus, the father of Ninus, was he that built or founded Babylon, can there be a doubt, in what sense it was that the title of Belus was given to him?

Fig. 21.

Nimrod in Hieroglyphics is depicted as the Spotted Fawn. It comes from the idea that when Yehovah made clothes for Adam and Eve after they sinned.

Gen 3:21 And for Adam and his wife Jehovah God made coats of skins, and clothed them.

Mythology says this skin was a spotted fawn. After Adam died, this same skin was likened to the rulership of the Human Race and Cush Stole it from the place where it was at and then hid it and later gave it to his son Nimrod.

This spotted fawn skin would later be changed to a leopard skin and is today why the kings in Africa wear a spotted leopard skin as a sign of their authority which dates back to Nimrod.

The title of Belus that was given to Cush must have been in the sense of Bel the “Confounder.” And to this meaning of the name of the Babylonian Bel, there is a very distinct allusion in Jeremiah 50:2, where it is said “Bel is confounded,” that is, “The Confounder is brought to confusion.” That Cush was known to Pagan antiquity under the very character of Bel, “The Confounder,” a statement of Ovid very clearly proves.

Jer 50:1 The Word that Jehovah spoke against Babylon, against the land of the Chaldeans by Jeremiah the prophet. 2 Declare among the nations, and cause them to hear, and lift up a banner. Cause them to hear, do not hide it; say, Babylon is captured, Bel is ashamed, Merodach is broken in pieces; her images are shamed, her idols are broken in pieces.

We will come to this scripture soon. There is a lot of info here.

The statement to which I refer is that in which Janus “the god of gods” “* from whom all the other gods had their origin, is made to say of himself: “The ancients...called me Chaos.” Janus was so called in the most ancient hymns of the Sai (MACrob, Saturn)

Janus is Saturn and is also known as Cush also spelled as Chus. Cush is also known as Bel-The Confounder.

Cush-Khus-Khawos-Khaos

Pro 25:18 A man who bears false witness against his neighbor is a maul, and a sword, and a sharp arrow.

Jer 51:20 You are My war-club and weapons of war; for with you I will shatter nations; and with you I will destroy kingdoms.

Now let us look at this word Maul. In Hebrew, it is the word Mephaitz and it means club or battle axe and to “Break in Pieces”.

Keep all of this in mind as we go forward.

Next we have some associations to the word Club and what they mean or who they represent.

Club

Mephaitz

Hephaitz

Hephaizt

Hephaistos Vulcan

Cush-Father of Nimrod

Cush-Chaos-Father of gods

Bel-Confounder of tongue-Father of gods

Janus also called Chaos was also The Father of the gods

Hephaistos-Vulcan-Father of the gods

Saturn was also the Father of the gods

All of these are speaking of the same person. Cuch, the Father of the gods. Now I want to look at one of these by the name of Vulcan.

Vulcans Hammer

Hephaistos flies back to heaven from his exile on the shores of the river Okeanos in a winged chariot decorated with the heads of cranes. The god holds the double-headed mallet of a smith in his hand.

Hephaistos is the name of the ringleader in the first rebellion, as “The Scatterer abroad,” as Bel is the name of the same individual as the “Confunder of tongues.” Here, then, the reader may see the real origin of Vulcan’s Hammer, which is just another name for the club of Janus or Chaos or Vulcan “The god of Confusion”; and to this, as breaking the earth in pieces, there is a covert allusion in Jeremiah 23:29, Jer 23:29 Is not My Word like a fire? says Jehovah; and like a hammer that breaks the rock in pieces?

Jer 50:22 A sound of battle is in the land, and of great ruin. 23 How the hammer of the whole earth is cut off and broken! How Babylon has become a ruin among the nations!

Babylon, as identified with its primeval god, is thus apostrophized: “How is the hammer of the whole earth cut asunder and broken”!

Do you actually listen to the words Yehovah is using which tell you what He is referring to?

Jer 50:2 Declare among the nations, and cause them to hear, and lift up a banner. Cause them to hear, do not hide it; say, Babylon is captured, Bel is ashamed, Merodach is broken in pieces; her images are shamed, her idols are broken in pieces.

Now, as the tower-building was the first act of open rebellion after the flood, and Cush, as Bel, was the ringleader in it, he was, of course, the first to whom the name Merodach, “The great Rebel,” * must have been given, and, therefore, according to the usual parallelism of the prophetic language, we find both names of the Babylonian god referred to together, when the judgment on Babylon is predicted: “Bel is confounded: Merodach is broken in pieces” (Jer 50:2).? * Merodach comes from Mered, to rebel; and Dakh, the demonstrative pronoun affixed, which makes it emphatic, signifying “That” or “The great.”

The judgment comes upon the Babylonian god according to what he had done. As Bel, he had “confounded” the whole earth, therefore he is “confounded.” As Merodach, by the rebellion he had stirred up, he had “broken” the united world in pieces; therefore he himself is “broken in pieces.”

So much for the historical character of Bel, as identified with Janus or Chaos, the god of confusion, with his symbolical club. *

* While the names Bel and Hephaistos had the origin above referred to, they were not inappropriate names also, though in a different sense, for the war-gods descending from Cush, from whom Babylon derived its glory among the nations. The warlike deified kings of the line of Cush gloried in their power to carry confusion among their enemies, to scatter their armies, and to “break the earth in pieces” by their resistless power. To this, no doubt, as well as to the acts of the primeval Bel, there is allusion in the inspired denunciations of Jeremiah on Babylon. The physical sense also of these names was embodied in the club given to the Grecian Hercules—the very club of Janus—when, in a character quite different from that of the original Hercules, he was set up as the great reformer of the world, by mere physical force. When two-headed Janus with the club is represented, the two-fold representation was probably intended to represent old Cush, and young Cush or Nimrod, as combined. But the two-fold representation with other attributes, had reference also to another “Father of the gods,” afterwards to be noticed, who had specially to do with water.

Vulcan’s hammer which is the symbol for Cush who broke in pieces the nations at the Tower of Babel would later be used by the ruling powers to break in pieces the world. As a symbol of their warring ability.

Gen 10:6 And the sons of Ham: Cush and Mizraim and Phut and Canaan. 8 And Cush fathered Nimrod. He began to be a mighty one in the earth. 9 He was a mighty hunter before Yehovah. Therefore it is said, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before Yehovah.

Nimrod was a Hunter of MEN

Notice that today we have men who are fishing as the Apostles did. Looking for the other brethren. But soon the hunters will come. Those who shoot first and capture and they will round up Israel and destroy many of them.

Jer 16:15 but, As Jehovah lives, who brought up the sons of Israel from the land of the north, and from all the lands where He had driven them. And I will bring them again into their lands that I gave to their fathers. 16 Behold, I will send for many fishermen, says Jehovah, and they will fish them. And afterwards I will send for many hunters, and they will hunt them from every mountain and from every hill, and out of the holes of the rocks.

Gen 10:10 And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. 11 Out of that land he went forth to Asshur. And he built Nineveh, and the city Rehoboth, and Calah, 12 and Resen between Nineveh and Calah, which is a great city.

Right here we have a huge development. You now see the King of the North Asshur and the King of the South Nimrod and or Cush.

Gen 11:1 And the whole earth was of one language and of one speech. 2 And it happened, as they traveled from the east, they found a plain in the land of Shinar. And they lived there. 3 And they said to one another, Come, let us make brick and burn them thoroughly. And they had brick for stone, and they had asphalt for mortar. 4 And they said, Come, let us build us a city and a tower, and its top in the heavens. And let us make a name for ourselves, lest we be scattered upon the face of the whole earth.

They wanted to build a name for themselves.

Gen 11:5 And Jehovah came down to see the city and the tower which the sons of Adam had built. 6 And Jehovah said, Behold! The people is one and they all have one language. And this they begin to do. And now nothing which they have imagined to do will be restrained from them. 7 Come, let Us go down and there confuse their language, so that they cannot understand one another's speech. 8 So Jehovah scattered them abroad from that place upon the face of all the earth. And they quit building the city. 9 Therefore the name of it is called Babel; because Jehovah confused the language of all the earth there. And from there Jehovah scattered them abroad on the face of all the earth.

Identifying Assyria

The Chatti

Chatti reminds us of the Club of Thor all over again.

We begin with the Ancient Tribe of Chatti. The name Chatti, or Hatti as it sometimes reads, in Hebrew means to break down by violence or confusion; to abolish, make afraid, scare or terrify. Chatti is a derivative of the Hebrew word for Hittite, Chittiy—mentioned numerous times in the Bible. The Canaanite Hittites—a fierce people who continually clashed with the Israelites in biblical accounts—were known by this name. They were descendants of Ham—those of a darker-colored skin.

Yet there was another people, with much lighter skin, who were also known by this name, Chatti or Hatti: the Assyrians! Historians recognize that there were two distinct peoples which went by the name of Chatti, or Hittite, as it reads in the Bible.

Hatti means 'men of War'

In Hebrew, the closest derivation is Chathath which is equal to terrorize, break down, as in war, hence a warrior or man of war.

Here we have the meaning of the word Chatti. To be broken and to be shattered.

Is it not amazing how this very name is so closely related to the Hammer of Thor and Cush which we have just looked at?

Terror

From the above words, we have learned that Chatti or Hatti: are the Assyrians and that this name means Terror. Again consider what we have been warning you about since 2005.

Leviticus 26:16 I also will do this unto you; I will even appoint over you terror, consumption, and the burning ague, that shall consume the eyes, and cause sorrow of heart: and ye shall sow your seed in vain, for your enemies shall eat it.

You now have a whole new understanding of this verse in Lev 26. All those things I teach all revolve around the Sabbatical and Jubilee years. And Here we are talking about the curses for not keeping the Sabbatical years in Lev 26. A hmmmmm moment.

Now you get an idea of how those appointed over you are called by the name TERROR. They are who are your enemies and they will be over you.

Yehovah is sending the Chati, He is sending the Hatti, He is sending the Assyrians, Yehovah is sending the Terror to rule over YOU! Yehovah is one doing this.

Terror. Breaking in pieces. Are you seeing a theme here for the Assyrians?

Yehovah is sending the Terror, and with it, He will break you in pieces.

Daniel 2:40 And the fourth kingdom shall be as strong as iron, inasmuch as iron breaks in pieces and shatters everything; and like iron that crushes, that kingdom will break in pieces and crush all the others.

Daniel 7:23 "Thus he said: 'The fourth beast shall be A fourth kingdom on earth, Which shall be different from all other kingdoms, And shall devour the whole earth, Trample it and break it in pieces.

As we consider what has been said of this fourth kingdom again from Daniel we get another clue. The new clue is that it is like Iron. Again this is important to keep in mind as we go forward. Once again it is referencing to the Club of Thor or Cush – The Breaking in Pieces. It is imperative that you know your history in order to understand prophecy and the current world conditions and what is going on. If you do not know your history you are bound to repeat it.

You are being taken right back to the time when Cush rebelled and destroyed the world peace that was here. That rebellion at the Tower of Babel is now coming right down to our time now when the whole world is about to be broken in pieces.

The whole world is about to be HAMMERED!!!

Let's go back to Sargon the descendant of Asshur and look closer at his titles.

Among Sargon's titles were Sakh, Saka, Saki or Sakko and the Great Khati. His patron god was En-Lil or Sakhar. The name of Sakh or Sakka means the established lord or leader. He was addressed as a god and deified as was his successor, Naram-sin who was the god of Akkad.

Sargon was one of the first rulers of Assyria and was a conquering war lord.

Because Sargon called himself Sakh and he who rules the four Quarters, it indicates an assumption on his part of being a divinity as this title has been reserved for high gods... The Assyrian Emperors took the title King of the Universe. In fact, from the time of Sargon to Hammurabi, the names of the Babylonian kings were often written with the determinative dingir (god), used normally for gods and objects intended for worship. This foreshadowed the Caesar worship of the Roman Emperors and the coming Beast so graphically illustrated in the book of Revelation. Sargon even pronounced himself to be the very protégé of the goddess Ishtar.

Remember this scripture?

Eze 28:1 The Word of Jehovah came again to me, saying, 2 Son of man, say to the ruler of Tyre. So says the Lord Jehovah: Because your heart is lifted up, and you have said, I am a god, I sit in the seat of God, in the midst of the seas; yet you are a man and not God, though you set your heart as the heart of gods; 3 Behold, you are wiser than Daniel; all secret things are not hidden from you!

In the inscriptions, Sargon repeatedly invokes the Sun god along with Sagg or Sakh (En-lil) and on one occasion the wife of Sagg. He had several sons of whom Man-ishushu (Puzur-Assur), likewise worshipped the sun god and dedicated a stone mace to the queen of the Sun-god at the Sun temple of Sippara. Sagg had a weapon-an emblem which Sargon appropriated and when claiming victory over Uruk vanquished his enemies and smote that city by the battlemace of Sagaga. Another Chronicle states that Sargon won his battles with the weapon of Lord Sakhar Tar.

A mace is a blunt weapon, a type of club

Have you made the connection? Did you see it? The Weapon of Lord Sakhar is talking about is the same one that Janus, or Vulcan , or Chus used to break in pieces. Which we just talked about. Professor Waddell wrote that he felt that Tar is a rendition of Thor. He continues – The Name of this weapon and pictorial sign are of significance. Its sign pictures what is regarded as a thunderbolt with an arrow-head; and it appears to be the same weapon which is carried by the Sumerian Hercules, the top of which is sometimes figured as a cross.

Professor Waddell wrote that he felt that Tar is a rendition of Thor. He continues – The Name of this weapon and pictorial sign are of significance. Its sign pictures what is regarded as a thunderbolt with an arrow-head; and it appears to be the same weapon which is carried by the Sumerian Hercules, the top of which is sometimes figured as a cross.

[Again we just read about Hercules and his club from Alexander Hislop. Again are you drawing the conclusions? It is the same club, the same battle-axe. Now learn how the club or battle-axe is represented as a symbol]

Sargon won his battles with the weapon of Lord Sakhar Tar.

Many of the first cross structures were those of the wheel cross, which was used in Assyria and ancient Egypt. In Assyria, at least, it clearly is a symbol for the sun. The cross represents the four corners of the earth

Remember just four slides back we showed you how Sargon called himself the god of the four corners of the earth.

The Vulcan hammer on the left is the same as Thor's Hammer. In hieroglyphs, it is represented by a cross of 4 hammers as if in action. Or an arrow with a cross at the end of it.

Mjollnir

Smasher

Milna

Molnija

Melit

Lightning

There is a clear link between the fylfot [swastika] and the Germanic thunder God Thunor/Thor/Donar and this is via His hammer Mjollnir.

“The image of Thor’s weapon spinning end-over-end through the heavens is captured in art as a swastika symbol [common in Indo-European art, and indeed beyond]”[page 31 of Gods, Heroes, & Kings The Battle for Mythic Britain by Christopher R. Fee].

When Thunor throws His mighty hammer it gives the appearance of a rotating fylfot. The hammer represents one of the four arms of this sacred Aryan symbol. So when followers of the Asatru faith wear the hammer of Thunor around their necks they are also in effect carrying a flyfot or swastika.

Stephen Taylor in his book The Flyfot File also draws on this connection: “The Flyfot was, amongst many other things, the symbol of Thor, the Norse god of thunder. It represents a stylised version of his hammer, Mjollnir[“Smasher”] which he would throw as a weapon and which would cause the rumblings of thunder and shattering power of lightning.”[Page 79].

The association of the hammer with a sky God is to be found amongst other Indo-European cultures. The Baltic thunder God Perkons also carried a hammer called Milna which may very well be linked linguistically to Mjollnir along with the Russian molnija and the Welsh mellt which both mean ‘lightning’.

Thor’s main symbol is the hammer You can now see how Hieroglyphs work to portray an image of Thor’s Hammer that Breaks in pieces. This is what the symbol of the Swastika means and represents.

Thors Hammer which breaks in pieces

Isa 10:15 Shall the axe boast itself against him who chops with it? Shall the saw magnify itself against him who moves it? As if the rod could wave those who lift itself up! As if a staff could raise what is not wood!

This is Thor’s Hammer. It is a double-headed battle axe One of the symbols of the Assyrians. Now maybe you can understand the words spoken in Isaiah.

Isa 10:12 And it will be, when the Lord has broken off all His work on Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, I will punish the fruit of the proud heart of the king of Assyria and the glory of his high looks. 13 For he says, By the strength of my hand I have done it, and by my wisdom; for I am wise. And I have removed the bounds of the people, and have robbed their treasures, and I have put down the people like a strong man.

Notice that Assyria is also compared to the rod

Isa 10:5 Woe to Assyria, the rod of My anger! And the staff in their hand is My fury.

Notice that Assyria is also compared to the rod of the Master Shepherd and this staff is used to punish as well as herd. Assyria the Rod, the Hammer, that Yehovah is going to use to punish Israel and to heard them up.

The Hammer was later depicted as this symbol.

Thor's Hammer is now also represented as an Iron Cross.

Tyr-The god of combat

This is another symbol of Thor's Hammer. The Tyr Rune (Rune is the Germanic Alphabet) Tiwaz rune, named after Týr, the god of single combat, victory and heroic glory in Norse mythology. This is the arrow and it is also represented by the letter T and or the cross.

The Tyr Runes association with war meant that the SS thought of it as the “Kampf” or battle rune, symbolizing military leadership. The SS commonly used it in place of the Christian cross on the grave markers of its members. It was also used by graduates of the SA Reichsführerschule, which trained SS officers until 1934; they wore it on their upper left arm. It was adopted as an emblem by the 32nd SS Volunteer Grenadier Division 30 Januar, which was assembled from the members of SS schools in January 1945, as well as by the SS Recruitment and Training Department[12]

The ss was stylized like the lightening of Thor which the Rune of the arrow represented.

Do you see how all of this is connected?

Old Norse-Tyr-god, Proto-Germanic-Tewaz, Old English-Tiw-Tuesday, Proto-Indo-European
deiws meaning “to shine”.

The Tyr Rune also is represented by the modern word Tuesday

Old Norse Týr, literally “god”, plural tívar
“gods”, comes from Proto-Germanic Tʰwaz* (cf.
Old English Tʰw, Old High German Zʰo), which continues Proto-Indo-European deiwós*
“celestial being, god” (cf. Welsh duw,
Latin deus, Lithuanian di'vas, Sanskrit d'vá, Avestan da'v, “demon”). And deiwós* is based in dei-, dey'-, d'dy*, -, meaning ‘to shine’.

Brethren this is extremely important and will come back into our teachings when we get to the great enlightenment of mankind.

Remember this and write this down. Your mouth will hit the floor when I show this to you later in on another day of our teachings.

Here is another symbol of the Tyr Rune. It looks like the shepherds staff does it not.

The Spinning hammer that breaks in pieces the whole world.

Thor's main symbol is the hammer thunderbolt Mjolnir. An alternative depiction is a fylfot or swastika, recorded in Icelandic folklore. Notice the Swastika on Thor's hammer. Also notice Thor is back in the Chariot as was Vulcan.

You will notice the Halo which is symbolic of the Sun God he worships. Nimrod was the Sun God. You will also notice the stars are what is now called the Megan David. Only they predate David by thousands of years.

The so-called Megan David Star is nothing but a symbol that represents Nimrod or the Sun god

This is another symbol representing Thor

Here we have the Hammer of Thor represented by the Swastika and it is in the circle which represents the Sun god. This is Thor. Another symbol of Thor was the Stars as we have seen and here it is again. Today you call this the Star of David. But it is not. It is the star of Thor and the Sun god.

In that star is the arrow which here is the cross and the Looped Tau Cross, and the Ansate

Cross. It was an Ancient Egyptian symbol of life and fertility, pre-dating the modern cross. This again is the symbolism of Thor or Cush the One who rebelled and caused the confusion of languages.

The Priest of Tammuz, Tammuz is also known as Nimrod, with the Cross symbol of the sun and fertility all over them.

Which symbol represents your faith?

Is the Star of David your symbol of your faith, which is known as the Star of Thor or Cush the son god. Is it the Cross as these two are wearing around their necks. This picture is from long before Jesus ever lived on this earth.

What symbol of your faith do you wear around your neck?

Notice the Iron Cross on this Assyrians chest and then notice the Star he is pointing to.

The same symbols found on the garments of the Pope. The Star and the Cross both symbols of Cush and later when Nimrod took over.

You have to be scratching your head by now. And be ashamed of those things you so venerated not too long ago and maybe still do.

Again the picture of the Star representing the Sun god.

Stephen just before he was being stoned said this Act 7:37 This is that Moses who said to the sons of Israel, “The Lord your God shall raise up a Prophet to you from your brothers, One like me; you shall hear Him.” 38 This is he who was in the congregation in the wilderness with the Angel who spoke to him in Mount Sinai, and with our fathers, who received the living words to give to us, 39 to whom our fathers would not be obedient, but thrust him away and turned back again to Egypt in their hearts, 40 saying to Aaron, “Make us gods to go before us, for as for this Moses who brought us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him.” 41 And they made a calf in those days and offered sacrifice to the idol and rejoiced in the work of their own hands.

This is the same beast the same bull that the Israelites made. This is a picture of the bull they made on the altar at Mount Sinai in Saudi Arabia.

It is a BULL. It represented Nimrod and His government.

This same bull is today represented in Europe in front of the European Parliament.

In Greek mythology Europa was a Phoenician woman of high lineage, from whom the name of the continent Europe has ultimately been taken.[1] The story of her abduction by Zeus in the form of a white bull was a Cretan story; as Kerényi points out “most of the love-stories concerning Zeus originated from more ancient tales describing his marriages with goddesses. This can especially be said of the story of Europa”.

Sources differ in details regarding Europa's family, but agree that she is Phoenician, and from a lineage that descended from Io, the mythical nymph beloved of Zeus, who was transformed into a heifer. She is generally said to be the daughter of Agenor, the Phoenician King of Tyre; the Syracusan poet Moschus[10] makes her mother Queen Telephassa ("far-shining") but elsewhere her mother is Argiope ("white-faced").

Zeus was enamored of Europa and decided to seduce or ravish her, the two being near equivalent in Greek myth. He transformed himself into a tame white bull and mixed in with her father's herds. While Europa and her helpers were gathering flowers, she saw the bull, caressed his flanks, and eventually got onto his back. Zeus took that opportunity and ran to the sea and swam, with her on his back, to the island of Crete. He then revealed his true identity, and Europa became the first queen of Crete. Some readers interpret as manifestations of this same bull the Cretan beast that was encountered by Heracles, the Marathonian Bull slain by Theseus (and that fathered the Minotaur).

Hercules in this version is none other than Shem who executes Nimrod. This is symbolic of Yehshua who executes judgment on Satan.

The etymology of her Greek name Europa (????- “wide” or “broad” and ?? “eye(s)” or “face”)[6] suggests that Europa as a goddess represented the cow (with a wide face) Hathor, at least on some symbolic level.

Hathor is commonly depicted as a cow goddess with head horns in which is set a sun disk with Uraeus. Twin feathers are also sometimes shown in later periods as well as a menat necklace. [6] Hathor may be the cow goddess who is depicted from an early date on the Narmer Palette and on a stone urn dating from the 1st dynasty that suggests a role as sky-goddess and a relationship to Horus who, as a sun god, is “housed” in her.

In a complicated relationship Hathor is at times the mother, daughter and wife of Ra and, like Isis, is at times described as the mother of Horus,

The Ancient Greeks identified Hathor with the goddess Aphrodite and the Romans as Venus

Europa the great whore who rides the Beast or government power is depicted in Egypt as Hathor and the symbol for her are the horns and in those horns is the sun god in copulation. Notice the symbols in both her hands.

This is why Moses destroyed the image of the golden calf, because of all the evil it represented.

When you match the pictures from Time Magazine to the Scriptures it kind of jumps out at you.

TIME Magazine's United Europe!

Rev 17:1 And one of the seven angels who had the seven vials came and talked with me, saying to me, Come here, I will show you the judgment of the great harlot sitting on many waters, Der Spiegel and all of Europe know who they are but we do not.

Rev 17:2 with whom the kings of the earth committed fornication, and became drunk with the wine of her fornication, those inhabiting the earth.

In front of the European Parliament is the symbol of the beast, that same bull from ancient times and this bull is being ridden upon by that same whore the bible has been telling us of since Babylon. That mystery religion.

Rev 17:3 And he carried me away into a desert by the Spirit. And I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet-colored beast, filled with names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

Rev 17:4 And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet. And she was gilded with gold and precious stones and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication.

The woman in these scriptures is as you all know is the Catholic Church or all religions.

Rev 17:5 And on her forehead was a name written, MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH. 6 And I saw the woman drunk with the blood of the saints and with the blood of the martyrs of Yehshua. And when I saw her, I marveled with a great marveling.

Getting back to the last words of Stephen.

That calf, that the bull represents is Nimrod and His government and on this statute of Molech the Israelite would eventually burn alive their own children. Today the same worship of Molech is today called Christmas.

Act 7:41 And they made a calf in those days and offered sacrifice to the idol and rejoiced in the work of their own hands. 42 Then God turned and gave them over to serve the host of the heavens, as it is written in the book of the Prophets: "O house of Israel, have you offered to Me slain beasts and sacrifices forty years in the wilderness? 43 Yea, you took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan, images which you made in order to worship them; and I will remove you beyond Babylon.”

Here again is another one of the Stars of Thor that Israel went and worshiped and still do to this day. Maybe even some of you.

The symbol of Jewish Star was around long before King David was and long before there was even a Judah and it was a symbol of Thor. The Martyr Stephen is warning them of this very fact when he says the star of Remphan.

The Tribes of Israel had as their worship the worship of Molech which is today called Christmas. The exact same thing as today. Judah has their star of Remphan

So where do those who carry the star of David get it from? Not David as it was around before he was.

1Ki 11:4 For it happened when Solomon was old, his wives turned away his heart after other gods. And his heart was not perfect with Jehovah his God, as was the heart of David his father. 5 For Solomon went after Ashtoreth, the goddess of the Sidonians, and after Milcom, the abomination of the Ammonites; 6 and Solomon did evil in the sight of Jehovah, and did not go fully after Jehovah like his father David.

Milcom is another name for Molech.

1Ki 11:7 Then Solomon built a high place for Chemosh, the abomination of Moab, in the hill which is before Jerusalem, and for Molech, the abomination of the sons of Ammon. 8 And likewise he did for all his foreign wives, and burned incense and sacrificed to their gods.

This is the Mount of Offence where Solomon built these altars to the East of the City of David. It is part of the Mount of Olives which is made up of three mounts.

Today the symbol for Molech is the Christmas Tree and the symbol for Ashteroth is still the Star.

Nothing has changed. Not a thing.

Just in case some of you have not yet figured this out. Let me be plain.

The Assyrian people of the bible today are known as the nation of Germany! The same people who brought Christmas to North America in the late 1800's.

The Assyrians are the Hatti which means 'men of War'

Car-men was a tribe in Assyria and also means Men of War.

Carmen would later be known as Kermen and this was later changed to German

Thors Hammer The Iron Cross and Swastika all symbols of Thor

Notice that Thors hammer is now a sword.

The Hammer was later depicted as this symbol above found in the ancient ruins of an Assyrian temple. The Swastika Hmmm "There is that Star of David again and you can also see the Cross on the left side.
Thor's main symbol is the hammer thunderbolt Mjolnir. Notice also the lightning.

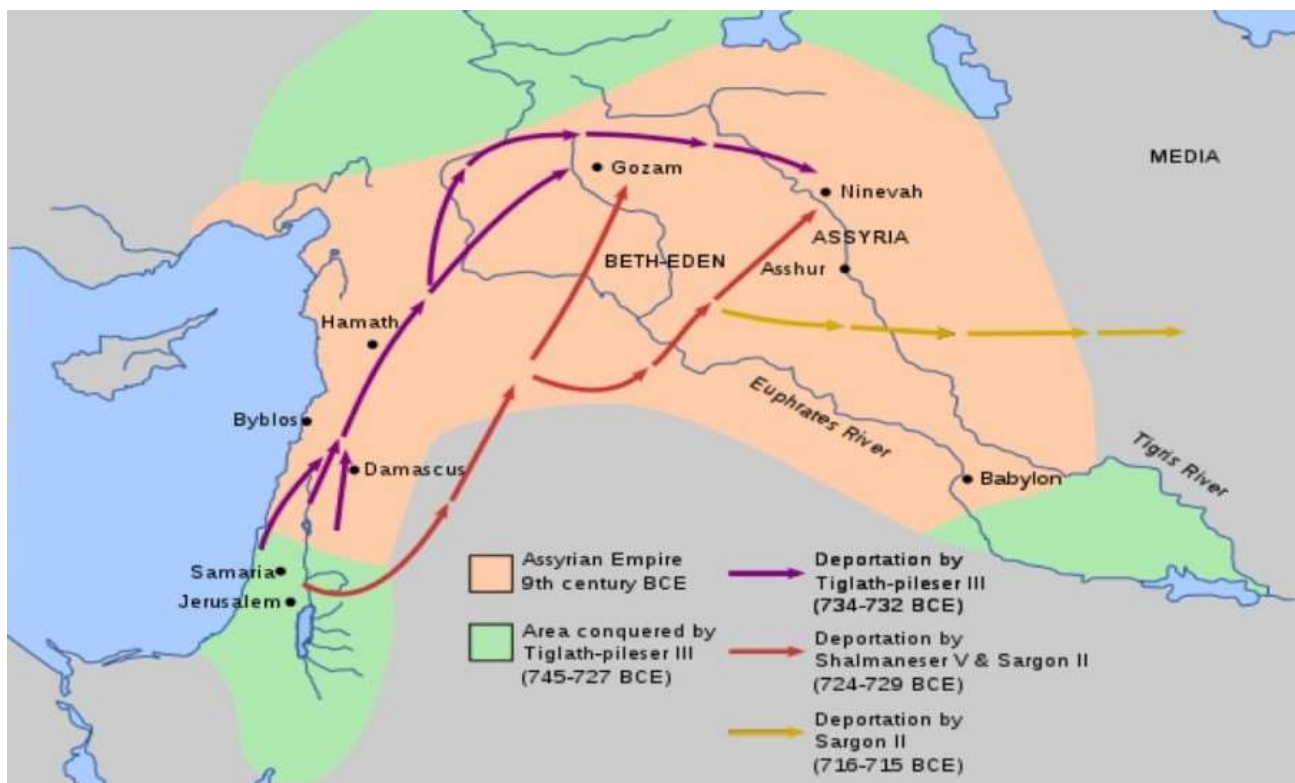

The sig rune (or Siegrune) symbolized victory (sieg). In its original form as the ʀ-rune of the Younger Futhark, it represented the sun; however, von List reinterpreted it as a victory sign when he compiled his list of “Armanen runes” .[1]

It was adapted into the emblem of the SS in 1933 by Walter Heck, an SS Sturmhauptführer who worked as a graphic designer for Ferdinand Hoffstatter, a producer of emblems and insignia in Bonn.[1] Heck’s simple but striking device consisted of two sig runes drawn side by side like lightning bolts, and was soon adopted by all branches of the SS – though Heck himself received only a token payment of 2.5 Reichsmarks for his work.[2] The device had a double meaning; as well as standing for the initials of the SS, it could be read as a rallying cry of “Victory, Victory!”.

[1] The symbol became so ubiquitous that it was frequently typeset using runes rather than letters; during the Nazi period, an extra key was added to German typewriters to enable them to type the double-sig logo with a single keystroke.[3]

On our Map below is where the Assyrians took the Israelites into the captivity. Keep in mind the symbol of the Assyrians, Thors Hammer to break in pieces the enemy. They did this by breaking up the defeated and moving them all over the place. Assyria did this to all their conquered peoples.

The Modern Assyrians did as well and will do the exact same thing again in the future. They move the defeated populations so that they are no longer familiar with the area they are in. It is a way to control them.

Again look at the Hittite Kingdom 1300 BC.

Notice Assyria right here in green.

We have another map showing the birth place of the German people.

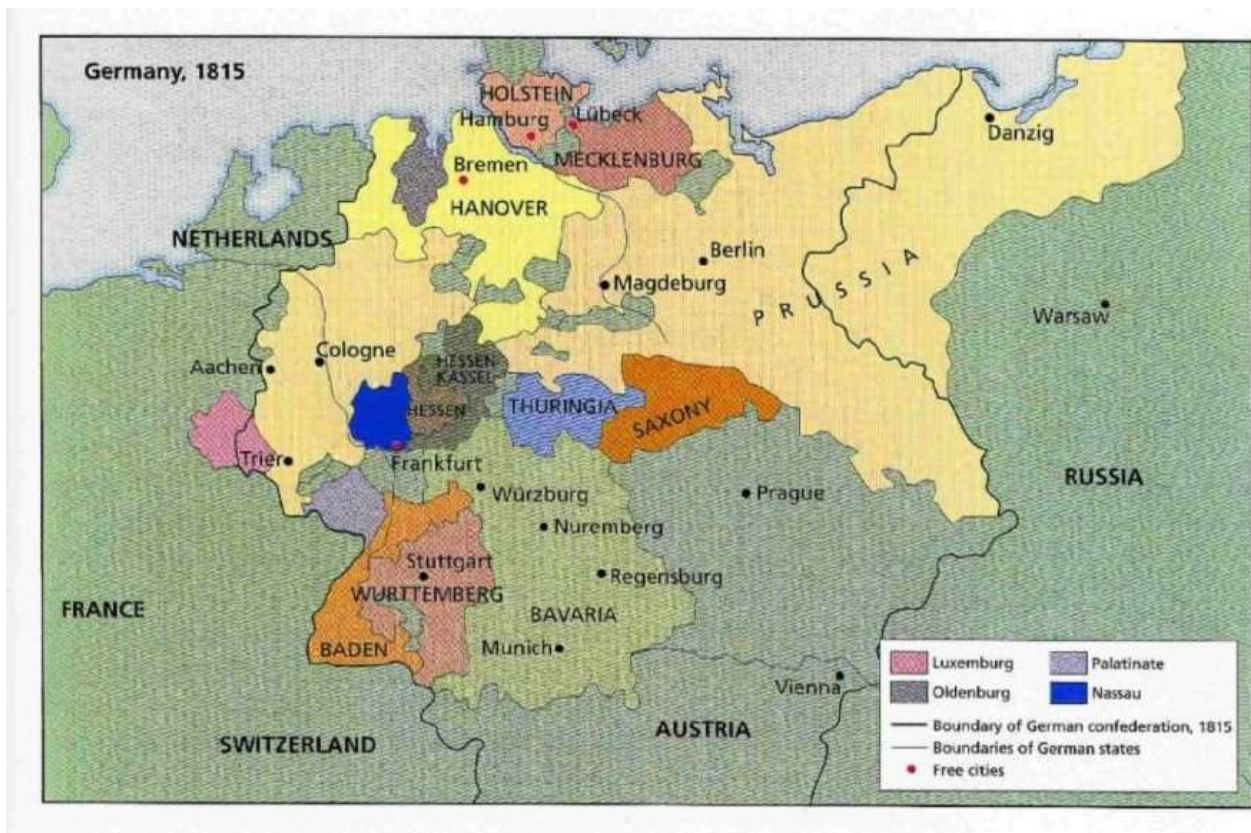

Germanicopolis (Greek: ??????????????) also Caesarea Germanica, was an ancient town in Isauria, Bithynia, on the Gelbes river,[1] not far from Prusa (modern Bursa in Turkey). In earlier times it was called Helge, Helgas or Booscoete (???? ?????), Plin. v. 40. Modern scholars locate the town at the village of Tahtal?

Prusa which today is modern Bursa is where we get the modern Prussians from. The people of Dessau, a very old state in Northern Germany claimed their ancestors came from Lake Ascenius in Bithynia. Near this lake are two cities of Prusias and Prusa

And here are the modern Prussians as they were in 1815.

Here is where the Chatti migrated too according to the Ancient Roman historians. You will have to look closely for them on the map, but they are there. Enlarge the map and look to the left of the Sueba/Sueva group. You remember the Chatti right.

One of the tribes were the Alamanni only foreigners called them the Alemanni, but that they gave themselves the name of Suevi.

Another Assyrian tribe were the Thuringians.

Alleman is French for German.

Between Mesopotamia and the Caspian Sea, tribes of an Indo-European people called Medes had become united under a single king. A later king of the Medes, Cyaxares, reorganized his army and attempted to expand westward against the Assyrians. He allied his army with the Chaldeans, who were now in control of Babylon and Sumer. The Medes and Chaldeans attacked, and together they defeated the Assyrians, overrunning Assyria's capital, Nineveh, in 612 B.C. Nineveh's walls were broken by the siege engines that Assyria had introduced centuries before.

After four years of bitter fighting, Nineveh was finally sacked in 612 B.C., after a prolonged siege followed by house to house fighting. Sin-shar-ishkun was killed defending his capital.

Despite the loss of its major cities and in the face of overwhelming odds, Assyrian resistance continued. Ashur-uballit II (612 B.C.–605? B.C.) took the throne, won a few battles, and occupied and held out at Harran (where he founded a new capital) from 612 B.C. until 608 B.C. when he was overrun by the Babylonians and Medes.

When the Babylonians overran the Assyrian capital of Nineveh in 612 B.C., the Assyrians moved their capital to Harran on the southern border of modern Turkey and Syria. The Babylonians then captured Harran in 610 B.C. and the Assyrians once again moved their capital to Carchemish, on the Euphrates River. Egypt was allied with the Assyrian king Ashuruballit II, and marched in 609 B.C. to his aid against the Babylonians.

The Egyptian army of Pharaoh Necho II was delayed at Megiddo by the forces of King Josiah of Judah. Josiah was killed, and his army was defeated. The Egyptians and Assyrians together crossed the Euphrates and laid siege to Harran in 608 B.C., which they failed to re-take. They then retreated to northern Syria.

These dates will stun you when we do the teaching on Niddah.

When Josiah was killed in 609 B.C. by Necho of Egypt Assyria loss control of Judea and it was now taken over by the Babylonians.

It is from this date that we count the 70 years of captivity which ended in 539 B.C.

This is Ancient map of Iran 726 B.C. to 640 B.C. Carmania (Old Persian Karmanâ) Historical documents refer to Kerman as "Karmania" (in Ancient Greek ?????????), "Kermania", "Germania", "Carmonia", and "Žermanya", which means bravery and combat. Geographers have recorded Kerman's ancient name as "Go'asheer" (Bardesheer).As you are aware the Babylonians also took their prisoners and transported them to other regions. One of those group from Assyria that was transported

As you are aware the Babylonians also took their prisoners and transported them to other regions. One of those group from Assyria that was transported were the Carmens. They moved them from Northern Turkey to what is now central Iran.

This next map shows the Carminia area.

Here is one in which the name is now Kerman

When the Medes and Persians took over this area The Israelites migrated north through The Caucasian Mountains. Along with them migrated the Assyrian's now known as Kerman's and Carminian's.

The Eagle Crest

This is the Hitite double headed Eagle.

Hittites: Hattusha, capital of the Hittite Empire (1650-1190 BC) Notice again the double headed eagle.

The Following is a Seal impression from Ashur; seal of an Assyrian king of the 14th century BCE

Here again from Asshur is the double-headed Eagle. Notice the iron crosses. But also note the wings on either side of the sun in the upper right corner.

Next are the Coats of arms in the times of the German Confederation and Holy Roman Empire.

And the current Coat of Arms of Germany. Hmmm eh?

Next, we have the Bundestag which is the Government Headquarters in Germany.

Here is a close up of those wings around the sun.

Male figure (possibly Shamash[dubious – discuss] or Ashur) in an Assyrian winged sun emblem (North-West Palace of Nimrud, 9th century BC; British Museum room B, panel 23). This iconography later gave rise to the Zoroastrian Faravahar symbol.

The Behistun rock which shows us the capture of some of the Israelite's. Notice the wing sun emblem here as well. It is the sun god Asshur. Or Nimrod

All the heraldry we have shown you so far is put together in this one symbol of Germany. The Eagle with wings outstretched and the circle of the sun god and the symbol of the hammer of Thor, the swastika.

The Extended Arm salute was accompanied by the cry SIG UND HEIL which means Victory and Salvation.

The title of Assur, the national god of Assyria was SAHA which means Victorious, the mighty Overcoming Saha is cognate with Gothic SIG and German SEIG

And it is also another symbol of the lightning bolt as we shared earlier, and it too meant victory.

Trier-The Oldest City in Europe

Trier is the oldest city in Europe

Trier is a city in Germany on the banks of the Moselle. It is the oldest city in Germany

The city is the oldest seat of a Christian bishop north of the Alps. In the Middle Ages, the Archbishop of Trier was an important prince of the church, as the Archbishopric of Trier controlled land from the French border to the Rhine. The Archbishop also had great significance as one of the seven electors of the Holy Roman Empire.

ANTE ROMAM TREVIRIS STETIT ANNIS MILLE TRECENTIS.

PERSTET ET ÆTERNA PACE FRVATVR. AMEN.

IBR-1699312 - (c) - Martin Moxter

According to the legendarium recorded in the 12th-century Gesta Treverorum, the city was founded by an eponymous otherwise unrecorded Trebeta, an Assyrian prince, placing the city's founding legend centuries before and independently of ancient Rome: a medieval inscription on the façade of the Red House in Trier market,

ANTE ROMAM TREVIRIS STETIT ANNIS MILLE TRECENTIS.

PERSTET ET ÆTERNA PACE FRVATVR. AMEN.

“Thirteen hundred years before Rome, Trier stood / may it stand on and enjoy eternal peace, amen,” reflects the proud city tradition. Further embroidery in the monkish Gesta made of Trebeta the son of Ninus, a “King of Assyria” imagined by the ancient Greeks, by a wife prior to his marriage to the equally non-historical Queen Semiramis. His stepmother, Semiramis, despised him and when she took over the kingdom after the death of his father, Ninus, Trebeta left Assyria and went to Europe. After wandering for a time, he led a group of colonizers to the site of Trier.

[Upon his death, his body was cremated on Petrisberg by the people of Trier. The image of “Trebeta” became an icon of the city during the Middle Ages.

Rome was founded in 753 B.C. If the inscription is true, Trier was already in existence at the time of Abraham and Noah.

German books and newspaper articles about Trier tell of a legend whereupon Trier had been built 4000 years ago by the Assyrian prince Trebeta. Supposedly the name “Trier” is derived from “Trebeta.” Joseph K. L. Bihl wrote in “In Deutschen Landen” (“In German Lands”) on page 69 [re-published in 1953 in Cambridge, Massachusetts]:

“The inhabitants of Trier maintain that their city is the oldest in all Europe. Trier was founded by Trebeta, a son of the famous Assyrian King Ninus.” The fact that Ninus was an Assyrian king is confirmed by Deodorus of Sicily (History, Volume II).

Next to the Red House is a building called "Steipe." Eyewitnesses reported seeing on the second floor of this house a picture that represents Ninus and Trebeta. Today, that painting can be viewed in the "Stadt museum Simeonstift," which is located next to the Tourist Office and the famous Porta Nigra.

Here is that painting of Ninus and Trebeta

King Ninus was believed to be the founder of the ancient capital city of Assyria, Nineveh. There were numerous things credited to him such as being the first to train dogs for hunting and horses for riding giving him the symbol of the centaur in Greek mythology.

The names of King Ninus with his wife Queen Semiramis were first mentioned in the historical account of Assyria written by Ctesias of Cnidus, who asserted to have gained the knowledge from the court physician of Artaxerxes II. King Ninus was further mentioned by the European historians up to the 19th century.

King Ninus was the son Belus or Bel, which may mean Ba'al or "Lord" in Semitic language. It was thought that he reigned for 52 years and in 17 years, he was able to add all of West Asia to his colonies with the aid of Arabia's King Ariaeus. He was the first to build an empire. He won the battles against the king of Armenia named Barzanes and King Pharnus of Medea crucifying the latter.

According to the history written by Diodoros, Ninus had invaded all the Asian countries next to his kingdom and fought with the armies of Bactriana. It was during their attack on the kingdom's capital, Bactra that he met his future wife, Semiramis. Semiramis was the wife of his general named Onnes.

Ninus and Semiramis had a son named Ninyas. After Ninus had died, Semiramis built a temple-tomb to honor him. She ruled as the queen regnant of all of Asia and fought with King Stabrobates of India but lost. She then gave the throne to her son Ninyas.

Nineveh

Nineveh was the heart of ancient Assyria. It is situated in the northern part of Iraq, to the east of the Tigris, in the middle of the once Assyrian Empire. Its remnants are now found in the city of Mosul.

It was one of the most populous cities in ancient times with lands fertile enough for agriculture and pasture for animals.

It was first mentioned in 1800 BC as the main city in worshipping Ishtar. The Old Testament pictured it as an extraordinarily great city though the land covered by the city itself was not that huge. During the 1847 British Henry Layard excavated the ruins of King Sennacherib's glorious palace that according to the story had more than 80 rooms.

King Ninus was first associated with the Biblical "mighty warrior" Nimrod in Clementine literature entitled Recognitions. Recent interpretations of Genesis 10 in the Bible states that it was Nimrod who established the city of Nineveh.

When translated literally the word means "the habitation of Ninus". Apollo Dorus further asserted that "Ninus is Nimrod" with the support of Justin and Diodorus' historical texts pointing out that Ninus had the same leadership attributes as that of the Biblical Nimrod.

Rev 2:12 And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write: He who has the sharp sword with two edges says these things.¹³ I know your works, and where you live, even where Satan's seat is . And you hold fast My name and have not denied My faith, even in those days in which Antipas was My faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwells.

Notice this is the land that was the Hittite territory. Hmmmmmm

The Pergamon Altar is a massive structure originally built in the 2nd century BC in the Ancient Greek city of Pergamon. The temple was dedicated to the Greek god Zeus. The Pergamon Altar was shipped out of the Ottoman Empire from the original excavation site by the German archaeological team lead by Carl Humann, and reconstructed in the Pergamon Museum in Berlin in the 19th century, where it can be seen alongside other monumental structures such as the Ishtar Gate from Babylon.

A German archaeologist, Carl Humann, began excavating the altar on Sept.9, 1878. The altar was then moved back to Germany and reconstructed. Kaiser Wilhelm II celebrated its erection in Berlin in 1902. In 1933 Adolph Hitler was elected Chancellor of Germany. In 1934 he became dictator and ordered construction of the Tribune at Zeppelin Field in Nuremberg for his Nazi rallies. ??The architect, Albert Speer, used the Pergamon Altar as the model for the Zeppelin tribüne. The Führer's pulpit was in the center of the tribune, which was built from 1934 to 1937. Adolph Hitler, the Evil King of Germany started World War II in 1939. After the end of World War II, the Soviets took the Pergamon Altar to Leningrad in 1948 (Same year as the Rebirth of Israel) as spoils. The Altar was later returned in 1958.

Berthold Konrad Hermann Albert Speer March 19, 1905 – September 1, 1981) was a German architect who was, for a part of World War II, Minister of Armaments and War Production for the Third Reich. Speer was Adolf Hitler's chief architect before assuming ministerial office. As “the Nazi who said sorry”,

One of Speer's first commissions after Troost's death was the Zeppelinfeld stadium—the Nürnberg parade grounds seen in Leni Riefenstahl's propaganda masterpiece Triumph of the Will. This huge work was able to hold 340,000 people.[33] The Tribune was influenced by the Pergamon Altar in Anatolia, but was magnified to an enormous scale.[34] Speer insisted that as many events as possible be held at night, both to give greater prominence to his lighting effects and to hide the individual Nazis, many of whom were overweight.[35] Speer surrounded the site with 130 anti-aircraft searchlights. This created the effect of a “cathedral of light” or, as it was called by British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson, a “cathedral of ice”. [36] Speer described this as his most beautiful work, and as the only one that stood the test of time.

Once again Satan is showing himself as the angel of light. Again keep this in mind for the other teachings coming.

King of the North and King of the South

Gen 10:10 And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. 11 Out of that land he went forth to Asshur. And he built Nineveh, and the city Rehoboth, and Calah, 12 and Resen between Nineveh and Calah, which is a great city.

Right here we have a huge development. You now see the King of the North Asshur and the King of the South Nimrod and or Cush which later was known as Babylon.

This is the Assyrian Empire and it was the world ruling empire before Daniels prophecy of the four Beast Empires.

Daniels Beasts are revealed after the Jews go into captivity in 586 B.C. by the Babylonians who had already defeated the Assyrians.

The following are the 4 Empires of Daniels dreams.

The Roman Empire the legs of iron and miry clay

You will notice that each of these Empires overlapped and was part of the preceding empire. Now take a look at how Islam has changed things in these Empires.

Then after the Roman Empire went into different revivals along comes a new group. This is Islam in the 750-1250 period. Notice where it is in relation to those other empires that have come and gone.

It is all to the south of what was the Holy Roman Empire.

The Ottoman Empire 1600. Again notice the area it covers. And again you have two branches East and West.

This Empire only came apart after it fell in WW I

Dan 11:40 And at the end-time, the king of the south shall butt at him. And the king of the north shall come against him like a tempest, with chariots and with horsemen and with many ships. 41 And he shall enter into the countries and shall overflow and pass over. He shall also enter into the glorious land, and many shall be stumbled. But these shall escape out of his hand: Edom and Moab, and the chief of the sons of Ammon. 42 And he shall stretch out his hand on the lands. And the land of Egypt shall not escape.

The word tempest is a whirlwind. The King of the South is today the Islamic Nations of what was the Holy Roman Empire.

Dan 11:43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt. And the Libyans and the Ethiopians shall be at his steps.

On December 17, 2010, 26-year-old Mohamed Bouazizi was getting ready to sell fruits and vegetables in the rural town of Sidi Bouzid, Tunisia.

Bouazizi was the breadwinner for his widowed mother and six siblings, but he didn't have a permit to sell the goods. When the police asked Bouazizi to hand over his wooden cart, he refused and a policewoman allegedly slapped him.

Angered after being publicly humiliated, Bouazizi marched in front of a government building and set himself on fire.

His act of desperation resonated immediately with others in the town. Protests began that day in Sidi Bouzid, captured by cellphone cameras and shared on the Internet.

Within days, protests started popping up across the country, calling upon President Zine El Abidine Ben Ali and his regime to step down. About a month later, he fled.

The momentum in Tunisia set off uprisings across the Middle East that became known as the Arab Spring.

The Arab Spring has led to the removal of strong leaders that held the nation in check. Now with their removal, the vacuum has led to the rise of Al Queda and ISIS and who knows who next. But where do we find this explained in Prophecy?

Gen 27:38-40 And Esau said to his father, "Have you only one blessing, my father? Bless me—me also, O my father!" And Esau lifted up his voice and wept.

Then Isaac his father answered and said to him:

"Behold, your dwelling shall be of the fatness of the earth,
And of the dew of heaven from above.

By your sword you shall live,

And you shall serve your brother;

And it shall come to pass, when you become restless,

That you shall break his yoke from your neck."

This word translated as restless is Dominion. It is the word rud

H7300 ru[^]d rood

A primitive root; to tramp about, that is, ramble (free or disconsolate): – have the dominion, be lord, mourn, rule.

It is the same meaning found in Daniels 4th beast in Daniel 7.

Dan 7:7After this I looked in the night visions, and behold, a fourth beast, frightening and terrifying, and very strong. And it had great iron teeth; it devoured and broke in pieces, and stamped the rest with its feet. And it was different from all the beasts before it; and it had ten horns.

Dan 7:23And he said, The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom on earth, which shall be different from all kingdoms and shall devour the whole earth, and shall trample it and crush it.

Esau was promised that he would have dominion in the end. That he would be Lord and Tramp about. And that his rule would be mournful. We also see in Daniel that this 4th Kingdom would have dominion over the whole earth and would trample it and break it in pieces. It would be terrifying and strong. All the same words that are used to describe Asshur.

We have now seen the 4 empires of Daniels Dreams but the 4th was very different to A.D. 476, at which point the kingdom was crushed. It died. But its deadly wound was healed just as John prophesied (verse3).

Revelation chapter 13, John describes a beast with seven heads and 10 horns, one head of which received a deadly wound. Historians agree that the Roman Empire existed from 31 B.C.

There were to be 10 resurrections to come out of that Roman Empire (just as Daniel said), the first three of which were plucked up by the roots by the “little horn”—suggesting that they were not altogether Roman, but nevertheless ruled within the ancient Roman territory after the empire collapsed. And that’s what happened. Three barbaric tribes did rule in the region before Justinian restored the Roman Empire in A.D. 554 and effectively healed the deadly wound.

Revelation 17 fills in the remaining details. In that chapter, once again John describes a beast with seven heads, but none of these heads is wounded. This time a woman, which throughout the Bible symbolizes a church, is riding the beast. She is called a whore in verse 1, and therefore symbolizes a great false church which rides, or heavily influences, this political beast. As we have shown you Europa is the mythological name of this whore. And the beast is the government she influences. The EU and the UN

Justinian 1st Holy Roman Emperor

By 554, Catholicism had gained enough strength to dominate the world. At the pope's behest, Justinian, the most famous of all emperors in the east, moved his government in the defunct eastern division to the west—Rome. The empire was temporarily revived as the “Holy Roman Empire”—a union of European nations with a Roman pope riding it like a woman on a beast.

Charlemagne 2nd Holy Roman Emperor

German

The Franks were the first barbaric tribe to embrace Catholicism, but it was for political gain, not religious. Mostly of Germanic origin, the Franks used the church to support their expansionist policies, while the church relied on Frankish rulers for protection. It was a union based on politics alone.

The Frankish kingdom reached the pinnacle of its power during the rule of Charlemagne (meaning Charles the Great). Before Charlemagne's emergence as world ruler, the political scene in Europe was greatly divided. Germany was sliced into many different tribes. Much of Italy was occupied by the Lombards. And Byzantium was recognized as the successor to the eastern region of the old Roman Empire. Charlemagne, in conjunction the papal throne, eventually changed all that—but not without much bloodshed.

Charlemagne felt it his duty to defend the church. In 774, at the request of Pope Leo III, he entered into northern Italy and conquered the Lombard kingdom, uniting Italy for the first time in centuries. In 799, he again came to the aid of the pope, who was assaulted, brutally beaten, and thrown into prison by a band of conspirators. With the military backing of Charles and his Frankish troops, the pope was exonerated of all wrongdoing and reinstated to his ecclesiastic office.

The following year, in Rome, while Charlemagne was kneeling in prayer during a Christmas celebration inside old St. Peter's Church, the pope placed a crown upon his head, pronouncing him "the 73rd emperor of the fourth world empire."

At this point, we should note that throughout the Middle Ages, many scholars, theologians, even popes, knew the Roman Empire was the fourth world-ruling kingdom. Many of them even identified this fourth kingdom with the one Daniel spoke of in his prophecy. That's why Europeans and Catholics kept trying to revive the empire! The Bible said there would only be four empires.

The violence Charlemagne used to enforce the Catholic religion on his subjects was simply unknown in earlier empires! He forced his brand of Christianity on everyone. His empire may have had distinct ties to the ancient Romans, but it was certainly not "holy"—even if there was a great church guiding it.

And yet, for centuries to come, the aim of succeeding emperors was to restore the traditions of Charlemagne in their quest to revive the Roman Empire!

Otto the Great 3rd Holy Roman Emperor

German

Otto the Great, anointed as German king in 936, was the first of a long line of German emperors to dominate the European political arena. The pope bestowed the imperial crown upon Otto in 962. For the next 800 years, German kings called themselves "Roman emperors of the German nation."

Like so many who followed in his footsteps, Otto was a ruthless warrior. He forcefully extended "Christianity" with the sword. Encyclopedia Britannica says he was "subject to violent bursts of passion" and that "his policy was to crush all tendencies to independence" ("Otto I," 11th edition).

In each new territory he conquered, Otto carefully planted new German colonies. This marked the dawn of German nationalism. Prior to this time, the Germans were still largely divided according to tribe. "But when their kings acquired the right to be crowned Roman emperors, they themselves became the imperial race. They began therefore to take pride in the common German name. A feeling of nationality was thus aroused, which never afterwards quite left the Germans even in their darkest periods" (Henry Northrop, History of the World, Volume 1).

This world-ruling, nationalistic spirit is what drove so many German kings across the Alps into Italy in search of things Roman. Though relations between German emperors and Catholic popes have not been without competition and struggle for supremacy, it is clear why the affair has endured the test of time. German emperors have always known that the road to world dominion goes through Rome. Equally so, the papacy has long known that the only way to forcefully spread its religion is to straddle the terrifying political beast wielding the sword.

Though there is not enough space to elaborate on every emperor who ruled during the third revival of the Holy Roman Empire, it is important to at least show the length at which many German kings went to secure close ties with the papacy. Otto the Great's next two successors, his son and grandson, spent much of their lives, and eventually died, in the neighborhood of Rome. Later, Henry IV (1056-1106), after being excommunicated from the church, waited outside the pope's castle in freezing conditions for three days before the pontiff came out to grant him forgiveness. Frederick Barbarossa (1152-1190) spent 15 years in northern Italy during six different military expeditions. He too was intent on keeping alive the ancient glory and power of the Roman Empire.

Barbarossa's grandson, Frederick II (1212-1250), was the last great emperor to rule during this German-dominated revival of the Roman Empire. Frederick was one of the most notable German emperors ever. To him, the ideal government was a totalitarian state.

Like emperors before him, Frederick also considered himself quite religious. In 1224, he established legislation which permitted burning heretics at the stake. Pope Honorius III and his successor, Gregory IX, were delighted with the bill.

After Frederick's death, the Roman Empire again went to sleep—another valley among the seven “mountain peaks.” The stage was set for another German family to curry favor with the Vatican in its quest for world rule. This royal line would eventually span 600 years of history!

Charles V 4th Holy Roman Emperor

German

For some time, the Roman Empire endured without an emperor. In 1273, the Austrian Rudolf of Habsburg was crowned king in Aachen, but not emperor. Early on, the Habsburgs seemed more concerned about the power of their own dynasty in Germany and Austria than they were about world dominion.

It wasn't until the 15th century that the emperorship would again play a key role in the aspirations of German-speaking kings. That's when Frederick V, the Habsburg king of Germany, was crowned by the pope as Holy Roman emperor. That title remained in the family until the dynasty ended in 1806.

The greatness of the Habsburg dynasty lies more in its duration than it does in its dynamic leaders. Yet it did produce at least two outstanding kings, reigning successively in the 16th century—Maximilian I (1493-1519) and Charles V (1519-1556).

Maximilian laid the groundwork for an international empire by arranging two marriages with the Spanish houses of Castile and Aragon. In one marriage, Maximilian's son Philip married Joanna, daughter of Ferdinand and Isabella. The genealogy of the Habsburg dynasty thus divided along German and Spanish lines.

It was Charles, son of Philip and Joanna, who was crowned Roman emperor in 1520 as Charles V. He became one of the greatest German emperors in history. Like Frederick II, Charles believed the emperor reigned supreme. It was during his reign that this fourth revival of the Holy Roman Empire reached its peak.

At age 19, Charles became ruler over Spanish and German dominions, including Germany, Burgundy, Italy and Spain, along with sizable overseas possessions. His kingdom became known as "the empire where the sun never set." Not since the days of Charlemagne had a German emperor ruled over such a vast territory.

Before his coronation in Aachen, Charles was asked the traditional questions by the elector of Cologne: "Wilt thou hold and guard by all proper means the sacred faith as handed down to Catholic men? Wilt thou be the faithful shield and protector of the holy church and her servants? Wilt thou uphold and recover those rights of the realm and possessions of the empire which have been unlawfully usurped? ... Wilt thou pay due submission to the Roman pontiff and the Holy Roman Empire?"

"I will," Charles responded.

Ten years later he was crowned emperor in Rome by the pope, and the love affair between church and state was rekindled once more. Though Charles was sworn to defend the Catholic Church, he did make a few vain attempts to mend the rift in the religious world sparked by Luther's rebellion in 1517. Nevertheless, his persecution against Arabs and Jews is well documented. In fact, he ascended to the height of his power while the Spanish and Roman inquisitions were raging in Europe.

After Charles's death, the Habsburg dynasty severed along Spanish and Austrian lines. The Austrian Habsburg line still assumed the title “Roman emperors of the German nation” just like their predecessors five centuries before, except they no longer pilgrimaged to Rome to be crowned by the pope. The imperial office became hereditary within the Habsburg line.

By this point, the power and might of the fourth revival of the Holy Roman Empire had begun to wane. The Protestant Reformation considerably weakened the once-dominant church in Rome. On the secular side, the tide of power was beginning to shift toward France. The fourth revival of the “Holy” Roman Empire was on its last leg.

Napoleon Bonaparte 5th Holy Roman Emperor

French

When Napoleon finally crushed what remained of the Habsburg empire in the 19th century, it appeared that the last vestige of the “Holy” Roman Empire had been destroyed. But what historians do not realize is that when Napoleon pompously grabbed the emperor's crown from the pope's hands and crowned himself in 1804, the Holy Roman Empire had merely transferred into the hands of the ambitious Frenchman.

After centuries of German and Austrian dominance, the Holy Roman Empire revived again for a brief interval of French dominance. It was the Roman Empire in disguise. Napoleon set out to carry on the ideals of Charlemagne, only in a more modern world. Like the German emperors before him, Napoleon envisioned himself ruling the world—and once again through the Vatican.

French dominance was short-lived. In the 20th century, the same Roman Empire reared its ugly head for a sixth time, once again with a German “emperor” and the Catholic Church as the main players. Though disguised by modern advancement, it was the Middle Ages all over again—this time on a much larger scale and with more sophisticated weaponry.

Hitler 6th Holy Roman Emperor

German

When Benito Mussolini became the Italian leader before World War II, he called his regime the Holy Roman Empire.

Hitler played the key role in the Holy Roman Empire—not Mussolini

Satan was the real power behind the sixth head of the Holy Roman Empire (Revelation 13:4). But he gave the leading human role to Hitler. Hitler led the Holy Roman Empire, even though he didn't openly call his regime by that name. However, the Third Reich has a similar meaning. Reich means Empire!

7th Holy Roman Emperor

German

Is Angela Merkel the 7th Head of the Holy Roman Empire? We do not know. She has been elected for the 4th time as chancellor of Germany.

We are watching and waiting for the next thing to come to pass when Europe under German leadership goes and attacks the Middle East after being provoked by the Middle East.

Dan 11:40 And at the end-time, the king of the south shall butt at him. And the king of the north shall come against him like a tempest, with chariots and with horsemen and with many ships.

Tempest Whirlwind-This is a Blitzkrieg

Blitzkrieg means “lightning war”. Blitzkrieg was first used by the Germans in World War Two and was a tactic based on speed and surprise and needed a military force to be based around light tank units supported by planes and infantry (foot soldiers). The tactic was developed in Germany by an army officer called Hans Guderian. He had written a military pamphlet called "Achtung Panzer" which got into the hands of Hitler. As a tactic it was used to devastating effect in the first years of World War Two and resulted in the British and French armies being pushed back in just a few weeks to the beaches of Dunkirk and the Russian army being devastated in the attack on Russia in June 1941.

A British view on Blitzkrieg

Hitler had spent four years in World War One fighting a static war with neither side moving far for months on end. He was enthralled by Guderian's plan that was based purely on speed and movement. When Guderian told Hitler that he could reach the French coast in weeks if an attack on France was ordered, fellow officers openly laughed at him. The German High Command told Hitler that his "boast" was impossible. General Busch said to Guderian, "Well, I don't think that you'll cross the River Meuse in the first place." The River Meuse was considered France's first major line of defense and it was thought of as being impossible to cross in a battle situation.

Blitzkrieg was based on speed, co-ordination and movement. It was designed to hit hard and move on instantly. Its aim was to create panic amongst the civilian population. A civil population on the move can be absolute havoc for a defending army trying to get its forces to the war front. Doubt, confusion and rumor were sure to paralyse both the government and the defending military.

"Speed, and still more speed, and always speed was the secret.....and that demanded audacity, more audacity and always audacity."

Major General Fuller

Once a strategic target had been selected, Stuka dive bombers were sent in to 'soften' up the enemy, destroy all rail lines, communication centers and major rail links. This was done as the German tanks were approaching and the planes withdrew only at the last minute so that the enemy did not have time to recover their senses when the tanks attacked supported by infantry..

Most troops were moved by half-track vehicles so there was no real need for roads though these were repaired so that they could be used by the Germans at a later date. Once a target had been taken, the Germans did not stop to celebrate victory; they moved on to the next target. Retreating civilians hindered any work done by the army being attacked. Those civilians fleeing the fighting were also attacked to create further mayhem.

How effective was Blitzkrieg?

In 1941, a diary kept by an unknown French soldier was found. In it are some interesting comments that help us understand why this tactic was so successful ;

“When the dive-bombers come down, they (the French) stood it for two hours and then ran with their hands over their ears.”

“Sedan fell as a result of a bombardment.....it was a superb example of military surprise.”

“The pace is too fast.....it's the co-operation between the dive-bombers and the tanks that is winning the war for Germany.”

“News that the Germans are in Amiens.....this is like some ridiculous nightmare.”

All the above were written in a period of just 5 days : May 15th, 1940 to May 19th, 1940.

Why were the armies of Europe caught so badly prepared by this tactic?

Hitler had given his full backing to Guderian. Ironically, he had got his idea for Blitzkrieg from two officers – one from France and one from Britain and he had copied and broadened what they had put on paper. In Britain and France, the cavalry regiments ruled supreme and they were adamant that the tanks would not get any influence in their armies. The High Commands of both countries were dominated by the old traditional cavalry regiments and their political pull was great. These were the type of officers despised by Hitler and he took to his Panzer officer, Guderian, over the old officers that were in the German Army (the Wehrmacht).

In 1940, Britain and France still had a World War One mentality. What tanks they had were poor compared to the German Panzers. British and French tactics were outdated and Britain still had the mentality that as an island we were safe as our navy would protect us. Nazi Germany, if it was to fulfill Hitler's wishes, had to have a modern military tactic if it was to conquer Europe and give to Germany the 'living space' that Hitler deemed was necessary for the Third Reich.

It was used to devastating effect in Poland, western Europe where the Allies were pushed back to the beaches of Dunkirk and in the attack on Russia – Operation Barbarossa.

The Assyrians were and are the King of the North. Germany will go against The King of the South in a Blitzkrieg, A whirlwind

You have the North The EU nations dominated by a German-led Catholic Europe and we have the south dominated by Islam all in green here. And we have Israel this little piece of red.

Psalm 83

All Muslim nations and one Assyrian

Assyria is Germany

Psa 83:1 O Elohim, do not remain silent! Do not be speechless, And do not be still, O ?!

Psa 83:2 For look, Your enemies make an uproar, And those hating You have lifted up their head.

Psa 83:3 They craftily plot against Your people, And conspire against Your treasured ones.

Psa 83:4 They have said, “Come, And let us wipe them out as a nation, And let the name of Yisra’el be remembered no more.”

Psa 83:5 For they have conspired together with one heart; They have made a covenant against You –

Psa 83:6 The tents of Edom and the Yishma’ites, Mo’ab and the Hag’arites,

Psa 83:7 Geb’al, and Ammon, and Amal’q, Philistia with the inhabitants of Tsor, Psa 83:8 Ashshur also has joined with them, They have helped the children of Lot. Selah.

Dan 11:38 “But in his place, he shall give esteem to a mighty one of strongholds. And to a mighty one which his fathers did not know he shall give esteem with gold and silver, with precious stones and costly gifts.

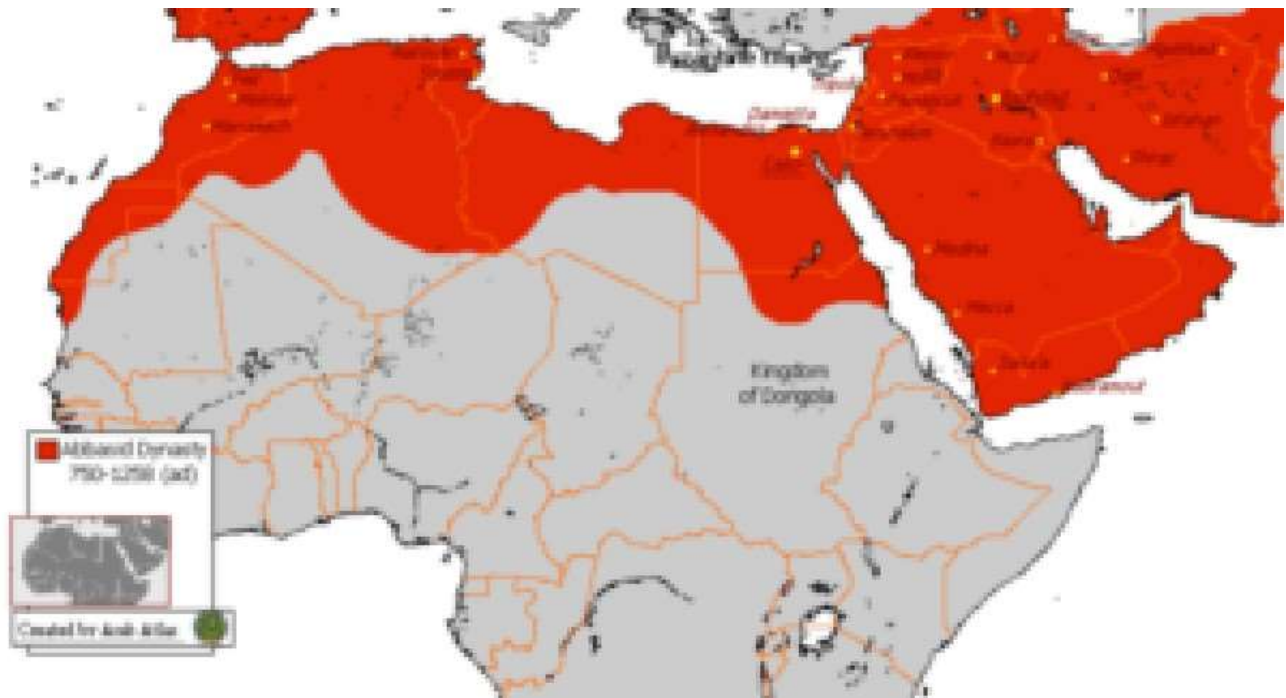

Cybele the Queen of Heaven and the god of fortresses. Today depicted as the Holy Mother Mary worshiped by the Catholic church.

This is with whom the Germans have gained the power of The Holy Roman Empire and they will use it again. In fact, they are now if you watch the News.

Dan 11:38 And to a mighty one which his fathers did not know he shall give esteem with gold and silver, with precious stones and costly gifts.

Mohamed began in the 700's. Mohamed began to be a god their fathers did not know.

Dan 11:36 And the king shall do according to his will. And he shall exalt and magnify himself above every god, and shall speak marvelous things against the God of gods, and shall prosper until the fury is fulfilled. For that which is decreed shall be done. 37 He will not regard the God of his fathers, nor the desire of women, nor regard any god. For he shall magnify himself above all. 38 But in his place he shall honor the god of forces; and a god whom his fathers did not know, he shall honor with gold and silver, and with precious stones and desirable things. 39 So he shall act in the fortresses of the strongholds with a strange god, whom he shall acknowledge. He shall multiply in glory, and he shall cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for a price.

When I made this teaching back in 2012 ISIS was not heard of. The Arab Spring was still new. The Invasion of Europe had not even been considered. But now you can see how the promise made to Esau is coming to pass as they invade Germany which still has the power over the EU and the UN and is about to be converted from the Christian roots it has had for 2000 years to the new faith in Islam which is being imported into the country by over a million Islamic migrants.

Islam Today Influenced by Germany

The Arabic Grand Mufti of Jerusalem Amin Al

Husseini With Hitler before the War II. With SS troops in Germany And again with Bosnian Muslim SS-soldiers

He was the uncle of Yasser Arafat. The Muslim SS troops were more vicious and cruel than any of the Northern ones.

Notice they all have the same salutation. Hitler showed the Mufti and he taught the Arabs.

What is coming next is WAR.

Not one but three great wars are about to begin.

Europe is going to invade the Middle East after being attacked. Then Europe is going to attack and destroy the USA and her Allies, the UK and Australia and Canada. After this Russia and China will form an alliance to attack and destroy Europe.

Three GREAT WARS and each of you here has a place in the helping and aiding many of the people to survive. In each of the countries, you come from.

This is prophesied for this current Sabbatical cycle.

Lev 26:23 And if you will not be reformed by Me by these things, but will still walk contrary to Me, 24 then I will walk contrary to you and will punish you seven times more for your sins. 25 And I will bring a sword on you that shall execute the vengeance of the covenant. And when you are gathered inside your cities, I will send the plague among you. And you shall be delivered into the hand of the enemy. 26 When I have broken the staff of your bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall deliver you your bread again by weight. And you shall eat and not be satisfied.

That is prophesied for this current Sabbatical cycle when the USA United Kingdom, Canada, Australia and New Zealand and South Africa and Holland, and Sweden and Denmark and Norway and Switzerland will all be defeated and destroyed. In fact, as we are going to demonstrate to you in the following teachings they will be utterly destroyed as if they never existed.

Then the next one will be during the great tribulation war between Europe and China and Russia.

Keep in mind when you read the first curse. I will send Terror, I will send the Chatti Terror which is the Germans and place them over you. Esau is also going to have dominion over the world in the end.

Know and Understand WAR is coming to the USA

270,000,000 will die. 90% the population is going to be wiped out.

Read Ezekiel 28:1-11 King of Tyre

Isaiah 10:5-23 “Woe to Assyria, the rod of My anger And the staff in whose hand is My indignation.

I will send him against an ungodly nation,
And against the people of My wrath
I will give him charge,
To seize the spoil, to take the prey,
And to tread them down like the mire of the streets.
Yet he does not mean so,
Nor does his heart think so;
But it is in his heart to destroy,
And cut off not a few nations.
For he says,
‘Are not my princes altogether kings?
Is not Calno like Carchemish?
Is not Hamath like Arpad?
Is not Samaria like Damascus?
As my hand has found the kingdoms of the idols,
Whose carved images excelled those of Jerusalem and Samaria,
As I have done to Samaria and her idols,
Shall I not do also to Jerusalem and her idols?’ ”

Therefore it shall come to pass, when the Lord has performed all His work on Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, that He will say, “I will punish the fruit of the arrogant heart of the king of Assyria, and the glory of his haughty looks.” For he says:

“By the strength of my hand I have done it,
And by my wisdom, for I am prudent;
Also I have removed the boundaries of the people,
And have robbed their treasuries;

So I have put down the inhabitants like a valiant man.
My hand has found like a nest the riches of the people,
And as one gathers eggs that are left,
I have gathered all the earth;
And there was no one who moved his wing,
Nor opened his mouth with even a peep.”
Shall the ax boast itself against him who chops with it?

This word ax is the battle Ax that we have been discussing above. The mighty hammer of Thor that breaks in pieces.

Or shall the saw exalt itself against him who saws with it?
As if a rod could wield itself against those who lift it up,
Or as if a staff could lift up, as if it were not wood!
Therefore the Lord, the Lord of hosts,
Will send leanness among his fat ones;
And under his glory
He will kindle a burning
Like the burning of a fire.
So the Light of Israel will be for a fire,
And his Holy One for a flame;
It will burn and devour
His thorns and his briers in one day.
And it will consume the glory of his forest and of his fruitful field,
Both soul and body;
And they will be as when a sick man wastes away.
Then the rest of the trees of his forest
Will be so few in number
That a child may write them.
The Returning Remnant of Israel
And it shall come to pass in that day
That the remnant of Israel,
And such as have escaped of the house of Jacob,
Will never again depend on him who defeated them,
But will depend on the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, in truth.
The remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob,
To the Mighty God.
For though your people, O Israel, be as the sand of the sea,
A remnant of them will return;
The destruction decreed shall overflow with righteousness.
For the Lord God of hosts
Will make a determined end
In the midst of all the land.

BERLIN, Sept 24 (Reuters) – Chancellor Angela Merkel’s conservatives beat their rivals on Sunday to win her a fourth term in an election that will also bring a far-right party into Germany’s parliament for the first time in more than half a century, exit polls showed.
